ENGLAND GAINS FOUR CRUISERS BY PACT JOKER

Discrepancy Is Shown in Testimony of Reeves at Hearing.

DISCLOSURE HALTS SPEEDY RATIFICATION

Admiral Reveals That Britain's Total Will Be 19, Not 15.

U. S. TOTAL LIMITED TO 16 BY DOCUMENT

Hughes Supports Jones as Opponent of Accord; Moffett Approves.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Discovery of a hidden discrepancy in the London Naval Treaty put an abrupt end to yesterday's tentative plan to wind up the hearings and initiate a drive to force speedy ratification by the Senate. Further analysis of the pact before the foreign relations committee and the naval affairs committee temporarily checked prearranged programs to expedite the Senate's probe and curtail debate on the floor if the treaty comes up for consideration.

There are reports that Senators Borah, Swanson, Reed and Robinson have been selected as key men to get speedy action and cope with all obstacles. Senator Watson, Republican leader, believes the treaty will be taken up if it reaches the Senate before the tariff is out of the way. Senator Johnson has fourteen or fifteen more witnesses to call, and Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee, has not concluded his hearings.

On the other hand, prospects of speedy ratification may be jeopardized if hearings are not curtailed as each day brings fresh developments and also brings additions to ranks of those senators who are skeptical of naval provisions and who are inclined to favor a thorough investigation of all matters vitally affecting security and future safety of the people of the United States.

Reeves Reveals Discrepancy.

Admiral J. M. Reeves, mmber of the general board, uncovered the discrepancy in the treaty at yesterday's hearing before the foreign relations committee.

It was shown that Great Britain is actually permitted to have nineteen cruisers of the 10,000-ton heavy-gun class as against sixteen for the United States during the life of the treaty. Prior to this disclosure it had been assumed that the maximum British strength in that category would be fifteen cruisers.

Testimony of Admiral Reeves, supported by that of Admiral Frank H. Schofield, who commands the battle fleet, was in opposition to the pact. Later before the Senate naval affairs committee, Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of operations and ranking officer in the United States Navy, gave unqualified support to Admiral Hilary P. Jones, the naval general board and the Naval War College in opposition to the cruiser program embodied in the treaty.

Statement by Hughes.

Admiral Hughes stated that the treaty does not provide parity, that abandonment of the 8-inch gun cruiser program is a mistake which will make it practically impossible to protect our trade routes in time of war and that the concession to Japan places the Nation at a serious disadvantage. The 5-3 Washington conference ratio, coupled with abandonment of America's right to fortify bases in the Pacific, gave Japan more than an even chance in case of war with the United States, the admiral asserted. He left committee members free to draw their own conclusions as to the effect of further concessions made at London.

Admiral Schofield told the committee that the treaty inures to our disadvantage in that it prevents proper protection of our commerce and coast

Rome, May 22 (A.P.).—Diplomatic circles in Rome were gossiping tonight about reports that Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, may soon be sent to Washington as secretary in the Italian Embassy.

He would take with him his wife, the former Edda Mussolini, whom he married April 24. The two are finishing their honeymoon in the south of Italy and are expected to return shortly to Rome.

Count Ciano now is secretary of the Italian Embassy to the Holy See.

House Joins Battle On Dial Telephones

War on dial telephones was declared by Representative Charles L. Abernethy, left, of North Carolina, and Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, as authors of resolutions seeking to ban them.

Glass Resolution Asking Ban on Instruments Adopted in Senate.

The war on dial telephones spread to the House side of the Capitol yesterday.

Two hours after the Senate had adopted the Glass resolution calling for the removal of the new telephones, Representative Abernethy (Democrat), of North Carolina, introduced a somewhat similar resolution in the House.

When officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. called on him later, Representative Abernethy suggested that they make a poll of the House to determine how the members felt about the new telephones.

Those he had talked to, the North Carolinian said, thought no more of them than he did; and his opinion of them, he emphasized, was far from flattering.

Representative Abernethy went farther in his resolution than did Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, in his. To what the senator had said about the dials Mr. Abernethy added that they also had increased unemployment.

The Abernethy resolution was referred to the House committee on accounts.

When the resolution came up in the Senate yesterday, Senator Glass declared that the dial telephones were a "perfect nuisance."

This Mad Sports' World

Repeating their double conquest over the Red Sox, the Nationals increased their lead in the American League race to three games yesterday as the New York Yankees twice defeated the Athletics in games which saw home runs in abundance. Babe Ruth hit a pair in the first game and another in the second game, bringing his total for two days to six. Lou Gehrig hit three circuit blows in the second game. A total of ten home runs were recorded in the second game, establishing a new record. The Athletics retained second place as the Indians bowed to the Browns, 3 to 2.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved to the fore in the National League by defeating the Reds while the Giants and Robins were losing.

America's Davis Cup Team opened its matches with the Mexican team at Chevy Chase, George M. Lott defeating Ignacio De la Barbolla and Wilmer Allison conquering Ricardo Tapio, jr.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody made her 1930 debut in the French hard court doubles championships at Auteuil, France, advancing with Elizabeth Ryan. Bill Tilden and Wilbur Coen advanced to the men's quarter finals.

Interesting and authoritative accounts and descriptions of these and other sports events will be found in the sports section.

HOOVER'S DRY STAND FAVORED BY M'BRIDE

Antisaloon League Leader Thinks Revival of Wet Issue "Good Thing."

$300,000 FUND SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

Approval of the Hoover administration's stand on prohibition was voiced yesterday before the Senate lobby committee by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League.

At the same time the dry leader outlined plans of his organization for an intensive campaign for the eighteenth amendment similar to that which preceded the adoption of prohibition. He expressed belief that it was "probably a good thing" that the prohibition issue has been revived and said he thought it would have to be "fought out and settled for all time."

Mr. McBride said he was "very much pleased" with most of the things done by the present administration for prohibition enforcement, but that it was too early yet to determine whether the league would support Mr. Hoover for reelection.

Taking issue with the witness, Chairman Caraway, of the lobby committee, demanded that he name the prohibition accomplishments of the administration.

"They are so many that it would burden the record, Mr. McBride replied.

"It would burden you to think of one," Senator Caraway rejoined smilingly.

Mr. McBride told Senator Caraway he thought the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice would be a good thing, but the committee chairman shot back:

"I don't think the drys are getting any help from the present administration."

Later Senator Caraway had his references to the President withdrawn from the records, explaining that

WETS MAY FURNISH PINCHOT OPPONENT

Plans Progress for Party to Enter Gubernatorial Race in November.

BROWN TRAILS BY 12,000

Philadelphia, May 22 (A.P.).—Gifford Pinchot, on the basis of unofficial returns, tonight stands as the regular Republican nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, but in the November election he may face, besides his Democratic opponent, a third candidate supported by the wet and possibly liberal forces of the State.

On the face of early complete unofficial returns from the Republican primary of Tuesday, Pinchot had a lead of more than 12,000 votes over Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia. Success in the Republican primary has been equivalent to election to this office for years.

The unofficial totals, with only 21 districts missing out of 8,701, gave Pinchot 631,030 and Brown, 618,235. Thomas W. Phillips, who ran on a slate advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment and of the State enforcement act, polled 264,462. Some districts did not report the complete vote for Phillips, as he was far behind the leaders.

Additional returns in the senatorial contest increased the huge plurality of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis over Senator Joseph R. Grundy to 234,504. A total of 8,406 districts gave Davis 720,608; Grundy 486,104, and Francis J. Bohlen, wet, 238,549.

The Democratic candidate for governor, John M. Hemphill, of West Chester, was nominated Tuesday without opposition, as was Sedwick Kistler, Democratic senatorial candidate.

Randolph W. Childs, who managed the Phillips-Bohlen campaign, announced that a party name would be preempted and placed in the field in November. Childs made this statement after a conference in the office of Robert K. Cassatt, chairman of the Pennsylvania branch of the Associa-

Dirigible Lands Safely at Pernambuco Port in Twilight.

THOUSANDS GATHER TO WELCOME CRAFT

Tropical Storm Drenches Clothing of Prince; Ship Unhurt.

TWO-TON LOAD ADDED FROM HEAVY RAINFALL

Eckener Decides to Delay Departure for Rio Until Afternoon.

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 22 (A.P.).—Flying over the route of the Spanish Conquistadores, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin for the first time crossed the Equator and made her bow to the Southern Hemisphere tonight.

Garnished with new transatlantic laurels, the world-circling airship reached the southern side of the New World just before the tropic twilight set in.

At 8:05 p. m. (6:05 p. m., Eastern standard time), her ropes fluttered to the ground, where they were seized by Brazilian soldiers forming the newly trained ground crew. Amid a furious din from thousands of spectators and a bedlam of horns and sirens, she was snugly tied up to her specially built mooring mast. Northern Brazil was delirious with excitement over the Graf's newest achievement tonight.

Whistles Shriek Welcome.

Pernambuco hailed her arrival with furious blasts of sirens and whistles from factories and ships. People swarmed out of their homes to gaze at the strange shining shape in the tropic skies. The streets were choked with shouting, gesticulating people.

Over the city and the harbor, about 1,000 feet aloft, the majestic silver bullet gracefully sailed. At 6:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m., Eastern standard time) she circled over Campo Giquia, the landing field, and then made off southward for a cruise of half an hour.

Presently she returned over the field, with her lights blinking down through the dusk, and glided down toward the mooring mast from an altitude of 600 feet.

Soldiers Fight Off Crowd.

The crowd in the packed grandstand cheered and waved, while the throng at the outskirts of the field surged forward against the police lines. Once at the mooring mast, the dirigible was given over to a crew of mechanics and stevedores, who swarmed about her while the soldiers fought off the excited crowd.

During the night, the Graf will take on water, fuel gas and a new larder of provisions. At daybreak, Dr. Hugo Eckener, despite the fatigue of the transatlantic flight from Seville, will head her still further southward to Rio Janeiro.

On the field awaiting her arrival tonight were a troop of Brazilian cavalry, 380 infantrymen, 350 civil and military police and two fire engines manned by 80 firemen.

Roads Jammed With Cars.

When the first vague reports that the Graf had been sighted along the coast were circulated in the city, hundreds of automobiles started for Campo Giquia. Roads in the vicinity of the field were jammed with cars, carts and pedestrians. Thousands who did not want to pay for a close sight of the Zeppelin from the grandstands went out none the less for a free if limited view.

The Graf completed her tropical transatlantic trip from Seville, Spain, to Pernambuco, in just 61 hours. This represented a flight of about 3,750 miles. She left Seville at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, Spanish time (3:30 a. m. Tuesday, E. S. T.), and arrived

CANNON WINS FIGHT FOR POST ON BOARD

Conference Crushes Move to Displace Bishop in Temperance Group.

HISSES GREET DANIELS

Dallas, May 22 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Washington, D. C., tonight had parried the fourth and probably the final thrust of his enemies during the forty-first quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

He again was named to the Board of Temperance and Social Service today after a determined movement to substitute Bishop A. Frank Smith, of Houston, had been crushed by the conference 257 to 124. As the bishop member of the nationally known board, Cannon was expected to be chosen chairman, the post he held prior to the conference.

Bishop Cannon earlier had been cleared of a charge of unbecoming conduct in his political activities; the episcopacy committee had found that the charges of stock gambling against him did not warrant a trial after he had apologized for his transactions, and the conference had refused to record a protest against the action of the committee.

Debate on the proposed ousting of the bishop from the Board of Temperance and Social Service was bitter and cries of "Tammany" and "wet" caused two prominent Democrats and Methodist laymen, opponents of Bishop Cannon, to speak on a question of personal privilege.

Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate in 1926, again voiced his dry views and expressed hope that the Methodist Church South would not drive out "all of us" who voted for Alfred E. Smith in the last presidential election.

Saying the honesty of his motives

SIMMONS CONTROLS PAY RAISE MEASURE

Police, Firemen Bill Doomed Unless Nebraskan Gets Phipps Amendment.

CITY HEADS CONSULT HIM

Only a compromise can save the Capper-Zihlman bill raising pay of local policemen and firemen, it appeared last night, and that means amending the bill to suit Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska.

Mr. Simmons, who is chairman of the subcommittee that handles the District appropriation bill, made it clear that he would not agree to the measure unless the so-called Phipps amendments are written into it.

These amendments, introduced in the Senate by Senator Lawrence C. Phipps (Republican), of Colorado, were rejected by the Senate while the senator was absent, and now they are being sponsored by Representative Simmons.

In addition, Mr. Simmons has an amendment of his own, but with this friends of the bill have no quarrel. Under this amendment, a certain number of policemen, the 10 per cent in the department showing the greatest efficiency, would be given a bonus of $5 a month in addition to their pay increases.

The Phipps amendments would scale down the raises it is proposed to give certain officials of the two departments, and also would change provisions in the bill dealing with the retirement system.

At present, each employe contributes to the retirement fund 2½ per cent of his salary. Senator Phipps would increase this to 3½ per cent.

He also would change the retroactive feature of the bill. Under this, for example, the retirement pay of former Police Chief Edwin B. Hesse

COMMUNIST INQUIRY ORDERED BY HOUSE

Red Political and Economic Activities Will Come Under Scrutiny.

IOWAN ATTACKS PROJECT

(Associated Press.)

A searching investigation into activities and propaganda of Communists in this country was ordered yesterday by the House to be made by a special committee of five members to be named by Speaker Longworth. Senate action on the measure is unnecessary.

The resolution, sponsored by Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, and Representatives Fish, of New York, and Underhill, of Massachusetts, Republicans, was adopted after a short debate by a vote of 210 to 18. The committee probably will be appointed next week.

Drafted to give the committee power to subpena witnesses and records, the resolution directs inquiry into membership of the Communist party of the United States and affiliated organizations, the Amtorg Trading Corporation of New York, the Soviet government's official commercial representative in this country, and the Daily Worker, reputed to be a Communist organ.

In addition, a study would be made of Communist propaganda in schools and of all groups and individuals who are alleged to advise, teach or advocate overthrow of the United States Government by force or violence.

Representative Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, attacked the resolution in the debate on the ground that it would divert the minds of people from economic and employment problems and would result only in a "wild goose chase." He contended that Congress should create a committee to "find out what is wrong

POISON WRITES END TO STOLEN ROMANCE

Girl Is Found Dead in Hotel; Runaway Husband Dies in Police Station.

LETTERS SKETCH STORY

London, Ont., May 22 (A.P.).—George Redfern, 42-year-old salesman of Kitchener, and Rita Gardner, young and handsome girl from Baden, fell in love and ran away. Now both are dead.

Miss Gardner's body was found in a Montreal hotel, a week ago Tuesday, two days after they had left Kitchener and Redfern's wife behind. She had died of poison. Redfern died today of poison, self-administered as he was arrested here and charged with the girl's death.

With Redfern's death the story of their romance and Miss Gardner's death must go untold, except as the man himself told it in letters to his deserted wife and relatives.

Police know, however, that he purchased poison in Kitchener before taking the train for Montreal. Miss Gardner was crying.

Arrived in the city, they registered at a hotel as Rita Smith and A. C. Rowland, taking separate rooms. Tuesday Redfern left the hotel, telling the clerk not to disturb Miss Smith because she was ill.

The clerk, however, called police. In Redfern's room they found Miss Gardner's body. Doctors said she had been dead 24 hours.

With her identification two days later, and that of Rowland as Redfern, a search was started all along the border.

A letter from Redfern came to his relatives in Kitchener telling them of Miss Gardner's death. Redfern said she took the poison herself and he was going to throw himself into the ri[illegible] above Niagara Falls. Police

Business in Washington

By GEORGE A. G. WOOD
President of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Being a newcomer to Washington, I am impressed by the very remarkable and substantial home developments which, of course, will make for greater business for the utility companies and merchants, and larger prosperity for the community as a whole.

Washington is quite unique in that no great measure of its prosperity is due to industrial developments; almost all of it is due to the activities of the Government and home building which make for stable business conditions.

Business in Washington should go along on an improving basis, very largely because its population will show steady growth, and this is in direct contrast to almost any other city of comparable size in the country because all other cities are more subject to industrial prosperity and depression.

On Monday of this week, the Harvard Economic Society in its current letter says: "We believe that business with due allowances for seasonal movements, will turn for the better this month or next, recover vigorously in the third quarter, and end the year at levels substantially above normal."

With that statement, and my own belief that the country-wide business recession was with us before many recognized it, I feel that there are many signs on the horizon that better times are very near at hand.

Stock market history shows that low and moderately declining security prices, accompanied by a great deal of irregularity in the price movements of particular stocks, with general business supposedly dull, easy credit conditions, and low rates for call and time money, lower railroad and industrial earnings with, here and there, decreased dividends, have always been good indices of a major advance in stock market prices.

GEORGE A. G. WOOD.

We can look back to the war years and the immediate post-war years, when utility stocks were on the bargain counter, because the industry was sick at that time incident to wartime conditions; and those who bought into utility situations when utilities were sick have reaped rich rewards; conversely, it must be just as sound to buy now into sick industries, such, as for instance, the great basic automobile industry.

I believe that after its breathing spell, business is now again ready to go forward with vigorous stride, and I therefore look for country-wide improving business conditions at once. I am one of those who believes that the most romantic period in American business is still ahead of us and some of it very near at hand.

Davis May Swap Residence To Build Political Fences

Primary Victor Considers Leaving Pittsburgh for Philadelphia.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There were right creditable reports yesterday in the aftermath of Pennsylvania's primary that Secretary of Labor Davis, the senatorial winner over Senator Grundy, plans to change his residence from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia.

Weight was given to them because of the fact that almost as soon as Mr. Davis emerges from the general election in November he must begin laying plans for 1932. It was only the unexpired term of William S. Vare for which Mr. Davis was nominated Tuesday. Two years hence he must run again.

Tuesday's result shows that his future is tied hand and foot with the Philadelphia organization. Although

Skull Seen as Missing Link In Mystery of Man's Origin

Find Gives Further Weight to Darwin Theory, Says Scientist in Report.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Freshly found evidence of a missing link, claimed to sustain Darwin's original evolution theory and put man's origin in Africa, was presented to the American Society of Mamologists today.

This thing, which may have been neither human nor ape, was discussed at a symposium on gorillas, where man's differences, as well as ape resemblances were cited. One sharp difference found by Dr. T. Wingate Todd, of Western Reserve University, showed that gorillas have almost no adolescence.

There were two schools of opinion as to when man separated from apes, if human beings originated so. One held that it took place long before over Pernambuco at 6:30 p. m. local time (4:30 p. m. E. S. T.).

It was 40 minutes later before her ropes were flung overboard for the mooring operation, and nearly an hour elapsed before the airship herself was at last snugly fastened to the mooring mast.

Doctor Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, said tonight that the big dirigible would leave for Rio Janeiro tomorrow at 7 p. m. (5 p. m. E. S. T.). He decided to postpone the start from daybreak until evening.

Landing Well Timed.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The New York American publishes tomorrow a copyrighted radio dispatch from Karl H. Von Wiegand, special correspondent aboard the Graf Zeppelin, which reached Pernambuco today after a flight across the South Atlantic. The dispatch said:

When Recife, Pernambuco, was at last before us, after our flight of more than 60 hours from Seville to South America, the Zeppelin had completed the first transequatorial passenger and airmail voyage.

Even at that, we arrived sooner than expected, although our landing was timed almost to the minute.

Steamer Salutes Graf.

This morning at 3 o'clock, I found Dr. Eckener on the bridge. He said: "We are running at 54 miles an hour, which should bring us to the Equator between 10 and 11 this morning. I am going to bed now; this has been a hard night."

Our position at 2:45 a. m. was 5:48 north latitude, 27:26 west longitude, with an 8 to 10 mile north by northwest wind. The Hamburg-American steamer Baden, below us, burst into a beautiful illumination of Greek fire and fired a salute as we dashed by, which we acknowledged with our light signals.

The Baden left Hamburg May 10 and arrives at Rio May 30. The Graf left Seville May 20 and arrives at Rio May 23.

We crossed the Equator at 8:30 o'clock this morning (5:38 a. m., Eastern standard time).

Prince's Clothes Soaked.

Between 3:45 and 5:40 o'clock we had been speeding along at more than 65 miles an hour. A tropical rain squall hit us and drove water into the bridge, which oozed into the wireless room. Some of Prince Alfonso's clothes were soaked, but he didn't mind that.

The torrential downpour on the giant Zeppelin's envelope made the inside sound like the roar of a great drum. The only passengers awake to enjoy the unique experience of crossing the Equator were Frau Hammer, Dr. Badt and Commander Shoemaker.

A miniature deluge was expected and the ship had been prepared for it, Dr. Eckener said:

"It was prophesied by some that the ship would be forced down, but none of the things that have been ominously predicted have happened. The ship could have carried an additional 15 tons, as the rains increased our weight by only 2 tons."

Eckener Hurries to Bridge.

Capt. Lehmann had the distinction of being on the bridge when the Graf streaked across the Equator. Dr. Eckener hastily finished breakfast with Prince Alfonso, Director Wronsky and myself and hurried to the bridge.

Eckener said:

"I will moor at Pernambuco to take on fuel. We will get away for Rio at 5 o'clock Saturday morning. If I had got all the fuel and gas I wanted at Seville it would not be necessary to refuel until our return from Rio. We have enough now, but not as much of a reserve as I would like."

Modern Aircraft Carrier Termed Irresistible Weapon of Attack.

(Associated Press.)

Picturing the modern aircraft carrier with its swarm of bombing and fighting planes as a virtually irresistible weapon of attack, Assistant Secretary Ingalls of the Navy reviewed last night for a radio audience the great progress which has been made in "America's air age."

Mr. Ingalls, who has charge of Navy aeronautics and is an aviator of note, devoted himself principally to the improvements and developments accomplished in aircraft by the Navy, but urged the importance, if aviation's growth is to continue undiminished, of establishing more and better airports all over the country.

He said the development of flying equipment virtually was complete but the ground facilities were far behind. His talk was one of a series by Government officials presented under auspices of the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

GIANT OCEAN PLANE TO RIVAL ZEPPELIN

Flying Wing Designed for 120 Passengers on Hops of 5,000 Miles.

PLAN TOLD TO ENGINEERS

Dayton, Ohio, May 22 (A.P.).—An actual test to determine whether the lighter-than-air dirigible is more suitable than airplanes for long distance ocean flight became a probability here today with announcement of plans of the Rumpler Motor Co. of Berlin for a "flying wing" plane for transoceanic flights, capable of carrying 120 passengers and having a cruising radius of 5,000 miles. Its pay load will be 42,000 pounds.

Detailed plans of the proposed seaplane, which is designed upon two huge pontoons, were made at the fourth annual convention of the Aeronautical Division of the Society of Mechanical Engineers by H. V. Thaden, vice president of the Pittsburgh Metal Airplane Co., in a paper prepared by Dr. E. Rumpler of the German plant, designer of the ship.

Ten Diesel engines of the pusher type, each developing 500 horsepower, will be utilized, the reduced space required for crude oil, with which the Deisel motors are powered, making for greater space for passengers and express.

Considerably larger in general dimensions than the Dornier DOX 100-passenger flying boat, recently placed in service in Germany, the Rumpler plane will be of radical different design.

Whereas the Dornier flying boat has its cabin for passengers in its hull, there being three decks, the upper for pilot and engineering officers; center for passengers, and lower for oil, gasoline and equipment, the Rumpler plane will house its passengers in the wing of the ship, which will be 8 feet high. The space in the pontoon hulls of the Rumpler plane will be used for passenger baggage and express.

Comparative figures on the dimensions of the Rumpler plane and Dornier flying boat are wing spread 289 feet, as against 157 feet; length, 160 feet, against 131 feet; speed (maximum), 145 miles, as against 133 miles an hour.

Mr. Thaden, quoting the plane designer, stated that the Rumpler plane would compete with if not surpass the large dirigibles now being built for transoceanic and long-distance flight, for efficiency and economy in operation.

Work of designing the Rumpler ship is now going on in the Rumpler factory in Berlin, with prospects of actual construction work being started within the next year.

GOAL OF HUNT

HERMAN BARRERE.

BOOTBLACK HUNTED IN MURDER MYSTERY

Alleged to Have Seen Blood on Shoes of Brewster, Baker Suspect.

BARRERE ALSO WANTED

With word from Army alienists last night that they would not be able to reach a decision before Monday on the sanity of Harold L. Brewster, Army private, who recanted his confession of slaying Mary Baker, police prepared to recheck every statement made in the original confession and will quiz the suspect again today.

The police program also includes the search for a bootblack who is alleged to have seen blood stains on the suspect's shoes and renewal of their hunt for Herman Barrere, whose name has continually cropped up during the murder inquiry. Deputy Sheriff Woodyard said last night that Arlington County authorities are particularly anxious to question Barrere for the purpose of hclearing up current reports which have linked his name with the case.

Capt. A. R. Bolling, who is holding Brewster under observation pending completion of the investigation, made inquiries at the barracks yesterday concerning the bootblack, but learned that he left the company's barber shop several weeks ago. The private who is in charge of the barber shop was on furlough yesterday and will be asked concerning the bootblack's whereabouts upon his return today.

The alienists who are conducting the sanity test are Maj. Patrick S. Mattigan, Maj. Charles L. Maxwell and Maj. William C. Porter. They expressed the desire of having Brewster transferred from the barracks to Walter Reed Hospital in order to give him a physical examination.

The physicians began Tuesday giving him a test to determine his mental status, but after three days of questioning were unable to reach a decision. One of the physicians declared that it takes from seven to ten days before a man's mental condition can be determined. Every day one of the physicians spends several hours observing the suspect's actions.

Inspector William S. Shelby declared last night that he had checked an Army officer's statement that Brewster had attended a dance February 1 at which the Baker girl was present. He said that his check revealed that Brewster was not at the dance between 7 and 12 p. m. While not revealing where Brewster was during the time, the inspector is continuing his investigation to determine whether Brewster had gone to the dance after midnight. The dance did not end until nearly 2 a. m., it was learned.

The authorities spent most of the day attempting to verify statements of Army privates that Brewster was in the habit of loitering near the Navy Building, where Miss Baker was employed. He is reported to have been seen on several occasions at Seventeenth and B streets at about 4:30 in the afternoon.

Miss Baker was last seen alive at Seventeenth and B streets on the night of April 11 by three persons. They were attracted to her car when they thought they saw her male companion beating her.

DIGEST'S POLL ENDS WITH WETS IN LEAD

40 Per Cent of Voters Favor Repeal, 31 Enforcement and 29 Change.

WIDE CONTRASTS SHOWN

New York, May 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A mere fraction under 70 per cent of the nearly 5,000,000 persons who cast straw ballots in the Literary Digest prohibition poll favor either repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, according to final figures in the vote announced today.

The ultimate results reveal that 40 per cent are for repeal, 29 per cent favor modification, and 31 per cent are for enforcement.

The final count, which is to be published in Saturday's issue of the magazine, culminates several months of work in the largest poll ever attempted by the Digest. On previous occasions the Digest has prided itself on the accuracy of its polls, especially in its presidential forecasts, which have always proved correct.

Wets Lead in New York.

New York State showed itself to be more than 40 per cent for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, with a large vote for modification. The vote for modification was greater than the vote for enforcement, but, as the Literary Digest pointed out, the modification vote can not be classed as a wet vote. New York's figures were: For enforcement, 109,586; for modification, 182,220; for repeal, 283,674.

Only five States, Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee, went into the dry column. Five others, Connecticut, Louisiana, Nevada, New Jersey and Rhode Island, went absolutely wet.

The final results of the 4,806,464 correctly marked ballots follow:

Enforcement, 1,464,098, or 30 per cent; modification, 1,399,314, or 29 per cent; repeal, 1,943,052, or 40 per cent.

Nevada, Kansas Are Extremes.

Wet and dry extremists honors went, respectively, to the States of Nevada and Kansas, the former going 57.61 per cent wet and the latter 57.67 per cent dry. Thirteen States which favored enforcement, by 40 per cent, were Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

In contrast there are eighteen States that gave more than 40 per cent for repeal: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Wyoming—and the District of Columbia.

About half the States of the Union cast approximately 30 per cent of the ballots for modification. They were Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Child, Policeman Are Bitten by Dog

Lieutenant Slays Supposedly Mad Animal; Victims Treated for Rabies.

Lieut. Edward T. Harney, commanding officer of the Harbor Precinct, was bitten on the hand by a supposedly maddog yesterday when he went to the rescue of a 3-year-old child that had been attacked by the animal.

Despite a severe laceration on his hand the lieutenant held his ground and with his service pistol sent several shots into the dog, killing it.

John Despears, 3 years old, of 1334 Four-and-a-half street southwest, was the first victim of the dog. The child was playing near its home when the animal bit him. Some one phoned the Harbor Precinct and Lieut. Harney responded. The dog was killed and was sent to the pound for examination. Both Lieut. Harney and the boy were given precautionary treatment against rabies.

ADVERTISING GROUP CLOSES CONVENTION

Ewald Discusses Research Work as Aid in Cutting Down Expenses.

CAPITAL CLUB PRAISED

Group conferences on club administration problems yesterday concluded the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America, which opened at the Willard Hotel Sunday with approximately 1,500 delegates present.

Work of the convention was to all effects finished at Wednesday night's session, when Gilbert T. Hodges, of the New York Sun, was elected president, succeeding Charles C. Youngreen, of Milwaukee.

At club management conferences yesterday William R. Ewald, newly elected vice president of the federation, discussed the need for research work to eliminate waste in advertising. He mentioned the better business bureau of the federation, and the central bureau that serves all advertisers as examples of how advertising clubs are striving to improve conditions in their business.

P. L. Thompson, of the Western Electric Co., of New York, and T. W. LeQuatte, of New York, one of the vice presidents of the federation, discussed the increasing use of sound films in club work.

Appreciation for the part that Washington advertising men played in the federation's "greatest convention" was telegraphed to President E. S. Johnson, of the local club, yesterday by William H. Rankin, head of a New York agency. Mr. Rankin's telegram praised President Hoover's efforts to prevent wage reductions in industry, and expressed full confidence in Mr. Hodges' ability to guide the destines of the federation.

Most of the delegates were expected to be home in time to hear an address on fraudulent advertising broadcast over the National system last night by W. E. Humphreys, of the Federal Trade Commission.

Mr. Humphreys credited publishers of the country with saving the public more than $150,000,000 in the past six months by rejecting questionable advertising.

"The press, in this matter, has rendered a great public service," he added, "and I believe that within a year the advertising columns of publications will be practically free of advertisements that are plainly false."

Legation Protests Attache's Arrest

Envoy Demands Apology for Arrest of Navy Man of Siam.

Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara, Siamese Minister, yesterday requested the State Department to take action looking toward an apology from the Washington Police Department for an assault which was alleged to have been made Wednesday by Detective V. B. Cannon upon Lieut. Comdr. Luang Brudhikrai, naval attache to the Siamese Legation.

Wednesday afternoon, the minister's report stated, Brudhikrai was taking his afternoon stroll when the detective pounced on him, beat him, sat on him and then without any consideration for diplomatic niceties hauled the attache off to the police station in a patrol wagon.

According to the police the trouble started when a woman living near the Washington Cathedral telephoned that a suspicious looking man was prowling around the neighborhood. There had been a number of robberies in the vicinity during the last few months.

At the State Department it was said that the matter was being taken up with the District Commissioners. Lieut. Comdr. Brudhikrai was released, soon after his arrest, on $5 bail.

MISSISSIPPI CLEARS STATE TAX OFFICIAL

Motion Sustained by Senate Leads to Dismsial of Franklin Charges.

LINKED IN GRAFT CASE

Jackson, Miss., May 22 (A.P.).—Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the State Tax Commission, was found not guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors late today when the Mississippi Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment, sustained by more than one-third vote a motion for pre-emptory instructions. The vote was 22 for the motion and 26 against.

Under an agreement entered prior to argument of counsel on the motion, if more than one-third voted to sustain, th eprosecution was to drop the charges and the senate declare Franklin not guilty. Had less than a one-third vote been cast for the motion, then the next step would have been optional wtih Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin remained in the senate chamber during the entire trial and while the vote was being taken. Both wept when Lieut. Gov. Bidwell Adam announced the vote.

State's Second Impeachment.

As a result of the outcome and agreement, the senate then without a dissenting vote adopted an order formally dismissing the six articles of impeachment voted by the house.

Thus, the second impeachment in Mississippi State history, and the first in 54 years, came to an end.

Impeachment of Franklin was based on six charges which grew out of a House committee investigation of an alleged clandestine settlement of a proposed $10,000,000 antitrust suit by the State against Warren Brothers Co., of Boston, Mass.

Suit Never Filed.

The suit was settled, according to contentions of the committee bringing the charges, for $80,000 in a Memphis hotel room, the money being paid in curtancy to Carl Marshall, Mississippi attorney, by George B. Crafts, general counsel of the road firm.

Franklin was brought into the case through allegations that he was present when the money was paid and accompanied Marshall to New Orleans for a conference with Crafts and that he gave excerpts from the proposed bill of complaint, in advance to the contemplated filing, to the proposed defendant.

The suit which caused the investigation and subsequent impeachment of Franklin by the House has never been filed.

Pension Approved For Mrs. Funston

Measure Provides $3,600 Yearly for Widow of Major General.

(Associated Press.)

A measure carrying provision for a $3,600 annual pension for the widow of Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston has been passed by Congress and now awaits signature of the President.

Mrs. Funston, now ill in San Francisco, was granted a pension of $100 a month several years ago. To supplement this sum in the support of a family, she obtained employment in a store. Failure of her health brought about a movement for a more substantial Government contribution.

Gen. Funston, who rose from the ranks, was the leader of troops which captured Aguinaldo, the Philippine insurrectionist, and later figured in the expedition of 1916 in Mexico.

Television Movie Received In Theater Half-Mile Away

Audience Pays Regular Admission to See Cinema Broadcast on 36-Square-Foot Screen; May Be Used in Next Presidential Election.

Schenectady, May 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A theater audience paying regular admission tonight saw a vaudeville performance transmitted by wireless from a General Electric laboratory a half-mile away in a test of Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson's television apparatus.

An initial test was made this morning when newspaper men saw images projected in half-tone on a transparent screen of 36 square feet.

The television projector showed a tremendous improvement over previous attempts. Three years ago, in St. Louis, Dr. Alexanderson exhibited the image in a 3-inch aperture. And last year he projected an image 14 inches square in a showing at Madison Square Garden.

Only the heads and shoulders of performers were visible. Definition in the center was about as sharp as a fair newspaper cut; toward the margins the image faded. At times the detail was remarkably sharp. Marring the image were parallel lines of "rain" running along a horizontal arc. In one or two instances there were wide blurs.

A two-way conversation between the theater announcer and studio announcer added to the interest and merriment.

Dr. Alexanderson said he was experimenting with television over short and long distances, namely, over a 2-mile stretch, and between Schenectady and Australia. The latter experiment, he said, was still imperfect, reflection, fading and multiple images being the principal obstructions.

He explained that the photographic images of the performers were converted into radio signals and transmitted to the theater on a wave length of 140 meters.

The performers stand before an incandescent lamp. Between the subject and the source of light is a metal scanning disc the size of a bicycle wheel, whose outer circumference contains 48 holes. The revolving disc covers the subject 20 times per second; that is, 20 half-tone pictures are built up each second. Four photo-electric tubes flicker 40,000 times per second in response to the image. Once the light is converted into radio waves, it is broadcast into space from an antenna and may be picked up by appropriate receivers. Spectators do not see a beam of light as in ordinary moving pictures.

Speaking at a dinner in the evening, Dr. Alexanderson said: "Television can not compete with the sharp definition of reel cameras. But television will fill a place in the theater whenever instantaneous images are necessary, as with a boxing match or football game. We hope expectantly to see television take a part in the next Presidential election."

Curtis Dealings To Be Aired Today

Son of Vice President May Have to Submit Records in Chicago Inquiry.

Chicago, May 22 (A.P.).—The State attorney's office today summoned thirteen contractors to a conference tomorrow concerning their dealings with Harry K. Curtis, Chicago attorney, son of Vice President Charles Curtis. The prosecutor's office announced that the contractors would be asked the nature of the work Curtis undertook for them and that Curtis would probably be asked to submit his records of the work and the fees charged.

The investigation is the result of unofficial charges that Curtis accepted fees for promises to aid contractors in securing Government contracts. The son of the Vice President acknowledged he had been approached by Mike Malloy, alleged representative of some of the contractors, with such a proposition, but said he emphatically refused to consider it.

Later, Curtis said, he did agree to serve as legal counsel for a group of contractors. He said he later learned that his name was being used in connection with the securing of contracts and forthwith withdrew as counsel, returning such fees as he deemed he had not earned.

Secretary of War Back At Desk After Illness

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley yesterday returned to his desk in the War Department after more than a month's illness. The Secretary said he felt fine and was "delighted to be back on the job."

During his convalescence Secretary Hurley spent much time at President Hoover's mountain camp on the Rapidan. Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation F. Trubee Davison, of New York and Long Island, was Acting Secretary during Col. Hurley's illness.

Favorable Report Given Harbor Bill

Senator Asks Early Action on Measure Calling for $120,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

With a call for "the earliest possible consideration," Chairman Johnson, of the Senate commerce committee, yesterday reported favorably to the Senate the House rivers and harbors bill authorizing vast waterway developments throughout the country.

Mr. Johnson, estimated that the total expenditures contemplated by the measure as it now stands would be about $120,000,000.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, chief opponent of the bill, contends it would authorize a total of more than $300,000,000 expenditure. His estimate, however, included a $75,000,000 item on which only $5,000,000 would be made available, and a $98,000,000 item on which $7,500,000 would be released.

FIRM TELLS PLANS FOR DOLLAR BOOKS

Other Publishers to Slash Popular Fiction Prices by One-Half or More.

DENY CHAIN-STORE WAR

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Four New York publishers, including Doubleday, Doran & Co., one of the largest general publishing houses in the United States, today announced price cuts that will reduce by one-half or more the cost of their popular fiction this summer and autumn.

Three of them, Simon & Schuster, Farrar & Rinehart and Doubleday, Doran & Co., will issue novels and detective stories at $1 a volume instead of $2 and $2.50. The latter two will also reduce prices of their more expensive books. The fourth, the firm of Coward-McCann, will issue only first novels and works by less popular authors at $1.50.

Simon & Schuster will publish $1 books in paper covers, but the others will bring theirs out in cloth bindings, the same type of books, they said, as they now issue at the higher price.

No Price War, Claim.

All announced the price cuts simultaneously as the American Booksellers Association closed its annual convention with a formal protest against sale of current books in drug stores and cigar stores at cut-rate prices.

Nelson Doubleday, president of Doubleday, Doran, said, however, the fact that the announcements came simultaneously was purely a coincidence. All declared no price war was involved.

Among the authors, represented in the different companies, whose works will go on sale at $1, are Mary Roberts Rinehart, Margaret Widdemer, Courtney Riley Cooper, H. G. Wells, P. G. Wodehouse and Arthur Schnitzler.

Cause of Decision Stated.

Mr. Doubleday said a depression in the business, which he said began seven years ago and grew worse all the time, was behind his firm's decision.

"And, after all," he said, "it's hardly fair to expect our readers to pay $2 or $2.50 for a book which they could have read in full for about 60 cents while it was running serially in a magazine."

M. Lincoln Schuster, on the other hand, said that his firm's action had not been precipitated by conditinos in the book trade, but that their purpose was to reach a wider public.

HOOVER DRY STAND INDORSED BY M'BRIDE AT LOBBY INQUIRY

they had nothing to do with the purpose of the inquiry.

Meanwhile, Senator Robinson, of Indiana, the only administration Republican on the committee, submitted to the Senate a report representing his views on testimony brought out before the lobby committee affecting Senator King (Democrat), Utah. Other members of the committee did not join in the report.

Contributions Are Recalled.

Recalling testimony by Samuel Russell, former secretary to King, that Herman A. Metz, New York dye importer, had contributed $1,000 to the Utahans' 1922 campaign fund and a like amount in 1928, Senator Robinson added that Senator King had "shown no desire to testify before the lobby committee."

While Senator King has not appeared before the lobby committee, he has told newspapermen that he never heard of the 1922 contribution and that he destroyed the check received in 1928.

Mr. McBride told the committee that the league was attempting to raise $300,000 a year to conduct a campaign similar to that preceding the adoption of prohibition. Senator Caraway asked if there was not "a greater war being made on the eighteenth amendment" now than ever before, and Mr. McBride replied:

"The wets are fighting harder now. But one reason is that they are against the wall and fighting for their lives. A few more elections like the one in Pennsylvania will discourage them."

Morrow's Plan Discounted.

At the outset Mr. McBride, questioned by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, the only wet on the committee, testified that the prohibition views of Dwight W. Morrow, as expressed in his announcement for the Republican senatorial nomination from New Jersey, would "repeal prohibition and cause us to go back to where we were before prohibition."

Mr. Morrow advocated repeal of the prohibition amendment and substitution of another amendment which would premit the State to determine what disposition to make of prohibition.

Senator Blaine produced an item which said the organization had pledges on its books amounting to $18,705,922. Mr. McBride explained, however, that $5,214,464 of the amount already had been collected and that the league usually obtained only about 70 per cent of the pledges.

Reaction Against Law Called Wet Delusion

(Associated Press.)

Expanding the view expressed before the Senate lobby committee, F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, in a statement last night said the outcome of the Pennsylvania Republican primaries "again indicates that the much advertised reaction against prohibition is merely an hallucination of the wets."

"The nomination of Gifford Pinchot as Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania was a most decisive defeat of the association against the prohibition amendment and a most impressive victory for prohibition," the statement said. "Pinchot's dry record and dry views were very well known. He was considered the dry candidate for governor. He was indorsed and supported by the Antisaloon League of Pennsylvania. His dry stand and his record as governor were his chief elements of strength for he had no factional party support, the political organizations of both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh being against him. Furthermore, practically all the big city newspapers of Pennsylvania opposed Pinchot."

McBride expressed equal satisfaction with the result of the senatorial primary.

PAY RAISE MEASURE HALTED BY SIMMONS

would be based on the increased salary the bill would give to Chief Henry G. Pratt. The senator does not think this is fair.

Representative Simmons usually has his way where bills affecting the District treasury are concerned, and indications are that he will have his way this time; this notwithstanding the fact that the House District committee has approved the bill as it stands and that virtually every civic and trade organization in the city wants it to pass as it stands.

House Leaders Behind Him.

The answer to this seeming paradox is that Mr. Simmons has the House leaders behind him. Until he tells them that the bill is satisfactory they will not allow the measure to come up.

Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby and the heads of the Police and Fire Departments, Maj. Pratt and Fire Chief George Watson, together with Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, spent a large part of the day at the Capitol yesterday. They talked to Mr. Simmons, and he told them that his views were those that have been cited here.

The officials also saw Acting Chairman McLeod, of the House District committee, and Representative Lampert (Republican), Wisconsin, who are fighting for the bill in its present form.

found that a man answering Redfern's description had registered in a hotel on the United States side of the falls. But there they lost the trail.

Today a man who gave his name as W. D. Baker, of Buffalo, arrived here from Toronto in a taxicab. With the chauffeur, to whom he owed a $9 bill, he sat down to breakfast. When the check was presented, however, he said he had no money.

Police were called. They recognized him as Redfern and arrested him. He admitted his identity and was taken to the police station. There, as he was being questioned, he collapsed and died.

COL. HARPER RESIGNS AS BANK PRESIDENT

Evans Is Elected to Succeed Official, Who Retires to Travel.

52 YEARS OF SERVICE

sented to serve as chairman of the board, a newly created position, for the remainder of the year. Filling the office of executive vice president is not contemplated at present.

Saying he is seeking recreation, travel and freedom from detailed responsibility, Col. Harper after 52 years' work without loss of a single day of employment and with but two vacations, has disposed of practically his entire stockholding interest in the bank to a syndicate headed by Mr. Evans and described as "a group of important local and outside interests identified with banking, utility and industrial activities." The price was not reported, but is said to be considerably more than any recent exchange bid price.

Col. Harper, who has served longer than any present national bank president in the District, was born near Leesburg, Va., in 1861, and came to Washington in 1886, with $450, after graduating from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy in 1884. Entering the retail drug business, he was appointed Commissioner of Pharmacy and Druggist to the Poor, a District office, which position he held until entering active banking.

In 1903, he organized and became president of the American National Bank, which later merged with the Federal. He disposed of his interests in it to Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, and associates in 1909, and next established the private banking firm of Harper & Co., and organized the District National Bank the same year, being elected president of the latter institution.

Col. Harper is a past president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, a past vice president of the American Bankers Association, organizer and now treasurer of the Washington Drug Exchange and was four times president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of numerous clubs and a director in several local and neighboring banks, business and utility concerns. He has held more civic positions, without pay, than any other man in the District.

Col. Harper said he will not relinquish his interest in civic lines and expects to be occupied with his banking, farming, real estate, apartment and drug businesses.

His successor, Mr. Evans, who began his long and distinguished banking career as a messenger in Riggs National Bank, was the youngest general bookkeeper and successively an assistant cashier, cashier and vice president of that institution. He resigned to become executive vice president and a director of the District National Bank in 1925.

He has held the same District and National Banking Association honors as Col. Harper. He originated the local association's convention idea, was its first convention vice chairman, and inaugurated its weekly luncheon meetings. He is a charter member of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, and was one of its first three national trustees chosen from among young bank clerks. He is also a past president of the local chapter.

His public life has been equally active, he having been chairman of the Better Business Bureau for five years, an official and committeeman of the Board of Trade, Community Chest, Washington Committee of One Hundred, of the American Civic Association, and secretary of the Republican State committee in the District. He attended Central High School and George Washington University. He is a member of several prominent clubs and is identified with numerous charitable and educational movements.

Mr. Rogers, the new vice president, has been a director of the bank for twenty years and is one of the best known business men in Washington, having been disbursing officer for the District of Columbia for eleven years and collector of taxes nine years. He left the District government service to enter the insurance business and is the senior member of the firm of C. C. Rogers & Son.

Losers In Love End Lives.

Mexico City, May 22 (A.P.).—Jose Martinez, 30, and Jesus Gonzales Sanchez, 35, love rivals, today took poison in a suicide pact because the object of their affection, decided to bestow them on another man. The rivals died.

Delicate Tints Decreed For Men's Straw Hats

Chicago, May 22 (A.P.).—Colored straw hats for men are to be more variegated and the well-dressed Sunday afternoon baseball crowd this summer may resemble a sign painter's nightmare, the Millinery Association of America heard today as big hat and headgear men from all parts of the country gathered trade information.

No longer must the wrong sex content itself with sedate whites and tans in selecting the straw hat.

Pale tints and bright colors will rule along with butter yellow, aquatone green and linen blue.

tion Against the Prohibition Amendment.

It was announced that neither Phillips nor Bohlen would be the candidate on the proposed ticket and that there was no connection between plans of Phillips-Bohlen campaign managers with preemption of the name of "Personal Liberty party" at the State Capitol yesterday.

Vare Elated at Result.

Nomination of Secretary of Labor Davis was a source of gratification to William S. Vare, head of the Philadelphia Republican organization. Davis was backed by the Vare organization and was slated for the position only after physicians had persuaded Vare to withdraw as he could not stand the strain of a campaign. The seat for which Davis is a nominee by defeating Senator Grundy is that which was denied Vare by the Senate on account of alleged large campaign expenditures.

In a statement today Vare said:

"In the few speeches that I delivered in this campaign I declared that the principal issue was the return of the stolen seat in the United States Senate to which I was honestly elected. The people apparently agreed with me. The stolen seat has been returned."

Gloom Over Brown Loss.

While there was satisfaction in the Vare camp over Davis' election there was gloom over the verdict against Brown for governor. Brown, who is 72 years old, is a grandson of one Pennsylvania governor and great-grandson of another and had sought to carry on the family tradition Hoarse and not a little tired after the strenuous campaign, Brown sat in his office today and refused to make any comment on the unofficial results.

Smiles wreathed all faces around the Pinchot headquarters today. "We've won," said Pinchot. "That's all there is to it." He declined to discuss the reported plans of wets to oppose him in November and plans to leave the city for his home in Milford, where he will engage in his favorite sport, next to politics, of fishing.

(Associated Press.)

An "orderly election" was reported to the Senate campaign funds investigating committee yesterday by its special agents who watched over the Pennsylvania Republican senatorial primary on Tuesday.

Chairman Nye made this announcement after the committee had consulted the first of the investigators to return from Pennsylvania, where Secretary Davis defeated Senator Grundy for the Republican senatorial nomination.

While extensive inquiry is in prospect for Pennsylvania, the committee requested the candidates and their managers to appear on Monday to submit reports on their expenditures.

Future Appears Tied With Vare Organization in Philadelphia.

MUST RUN IN TWO YEARS

he ran a surprisingly strong race out in the State, it was his understanding with William S. Vare that put him across.

He must intrench himself with that Philadelphia organization in 1932 to win again, and such a situation exists in the State that he may easily be traded off. Mr. Vare adopted him this time in an effort to draw strength from the western end of the State to his gubernatorial candidate, Francis Shunk Brown. Apparently the plan did not work as Mr. Pinchot seems to have defeated Mr. Brown.

Another angle is that Senator Dave Reed comes up for reelection in 1934 and it was one of his apprehensions over Davis' campaign that two senators from the western end of the State would not be countenanced. He was given various assurances, however, that he need not worry, that some way would be found by which this anomalous situation would not be permitted to exist.

There are only three ways to prevent it, one for Mr. Davis not to be a candidate in 1932 and the other for him to remove to Philadelphia, or, of course, for Mr. Reed to do so. Residences are not taken seriously by Pennsylvania candidates. After Representative Beck was sent to the House and Mr. Davis' victory, one gets the impression that English parliamentary system exists in the Keystone State.

Mr. Davis was born in Wales, lived in Pennsylvania in his earlier years in this country, in Birmingham, Ala., in Indiana, and was then appointed to the Cabinet from Illinois.

In the case now of either he or Mr. Reed changing residences it would, of course, be more logical for Mr. Davis to be the one. Pittsburgh is only Mr. Reed's home. Mr. Davis has only a voting residence there.

And, too, he was the Philadelphia candidate in Tuesday's race. His residence should most logically be with his fellows.

There was gossip in Pennsylvania during the recent campaign that Mr. Davis had said he did not intend to be a candidate two years hence. This was not taken seriously, however. Regardless of what Mr. Davis' mind is now, Senator Baird, of New Jersey, is the only one readily recalled who voluntarily said he would retire to let another man in.

This same gossip attributed senatorial ambitions to W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

And, of course, he may have them but he still has six years to go before retirement as head of the railroad and he seems now to be embarked upon a program of consolidations that would require three years. However, he was politically minded enough to want to be Republican national committeeman from his State.

Mr. Davis, Mr. Grundy and Prof F. H. Bohlen, were all invited by Senator Nye, chairman of the senatorial investigating committee, yesterday to appear before the committee Monday with their managers and records of expenditures.

ARCHITECTS HONOR FELLOW MEMBERS

Sixteen Fellows Are Elected by Institute Convention in Capital Session.

AWARDS ARE GIVEN

Five honorary members, including John D. Rockefeller, jr., were elected yesterday at the sixty-third convention of the American Institute of Architects, in session at the Hotel Mayflower. Earlier in the day, which was given over entirely to honoring leaders of the profession, sixteen fellows and two honorary corresponding members were elected.

At last night's session, presided over by Prof. William Emerson, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Fine Arts Medal of the Institute was formally bestowed on Adolph Weinan, of New York. The Craftmanship Medal was presented to John Kirchmayer, of Cambridge, Mass.

The honorary members were chosen for "distinguished service in the interest of the fine arts." In pronouncing the citations, J. Monroe Hewlett, of New York, chairman of the committee on allied arts, said that "Mr. Rockefeller has in his great generosity shown a decided sympathy, almost a preference, for benefits to mankind that have involved architecture."

Historical Work Cited.

Chief among many benefactions credited to Mr. Rockefeller by Mr. Hewlitt was the restoration of the City of Williamsburg, Va., "a project unprecedented in its scope and cost and unlimited in its possibilities as an inspiration in good architecture, patriotism and citizenship."

Other honorary members elected were Prof. William A. Goodwin, of Willia mand Mary College; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, hospital administrator of New York City; A. F. Brinckerhoff, New York landscape architect; Charles J. Connick, stained-glass worker, of Boston.

Senor Nestor Egydio de Figueiredo, of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and M. Andre Arfvidson, of Paris, were elected honorary corresponding members.

In bestowing the Fine Arts Medal upon Mr. Weinan, New York sculptor and member of the National Fine Arts Commission, Mr. Hewlett said: "Mr. Weinan's work is notable not merely for its individual excellence but for its sympathetic and harmonious relation to the architecture with which it is associated."

16 Fellows Elected.

In his annual report as chairman of the institute's committee on allied arts, Mr. Hewlitt urged the organization to take the lead in promoting beauty "in those products that do so much to make or mar the effect of buildings and to develop greater public discrimination in the qualities which constitute excellence in design and workmanship."

The sixteen fellows elected yesterday are: E. Raymond Bossauge, dean of New York University; Arthur Brown, California architect, who assisted in the design of Government buildings in Washington; Otto R. Eggers, New York designer; Goldwin Goldsmith, teacher of architecture at the University of Texas; William Charles Hayes, writer and teacher, graduate of the University of Pennsylvania; Frederick Ellis Jackson, architect of Providence, R. I.; Francis V. Joannes, New York architect; Julian Clarence Levi, graduate of Columbia University and the Ecole des Beaux Arts; William Orr Ludlow, New York architect; Albert C. Phelps, of Cornell University; J. Otis Post, of the Beaux Arts Institute of Design; Frederick William Revels, of the University of Syracuse; Walter Horstmann Thomas, of Philadelphia; John Almy Tompkins, 2d, graduate of Columbia University; Hobart Upjohn, of New York, and Frank R. Watson, past president of the Philadelphia chapter of the institute.

Much-Robbed Bank's Last $2,000 Is Taken

Nowata, Okla., May 22 (A.P.).—The much-robbed Bank of Alluwe lost its last $2,000 to three holdup men today. The robbery occurred while R. A. Patton, an assistant State bank commissioner, and J. B. The Alluwe Bank had been raided by the Al Spencer, Poe-Hart and other outlaw gangs which had hiding places in the hilly country in this section. The last previous robbery was in March.

DISCLOSURE OF PACT JOKER HALTS ACTION BY SENATE

lines and makes it impossible for us adequately to defend our interests in the Far East.

The American naval program laid down by the Congress of the United States is better, he said, than the program under which America is compelled to build types which Great Britain stipulates and is not permitted by Great Britain to build the types which the American Navy desires for American needs. Admiral Schofield was asked why Great Britain will permit us to build 6-inch ships but not 8-inch gun cruisers. Great Britain insists that we build 6-inch gun ships, the admiral replied, because she knows they do not suit our needs and she therefore thinks we won't build them. This brought laughter from the spectators.

Recommendations Disclosed.

Admiral Reeves disclosed, for the first time, recommendations which the board made on September last in connection with British efforts to curtail the number of 8-inch-gun American cruisers. There were three points in the recommendations as follows:

First—Freedom of the United States to build the type of cruiser the United States needs.

Second—No subdivisions in categories.

Third—No laying down of replacements prior to 1936.

Provided no connection be made by the American delegation on any of these three points and provided further than no consideration be given to any figure lower than the irreducible minimum proposed, the general board suggested 21 8-inch-gun cruisers as "the rock-bottom limit."

The delegation, Admiral Reeves pointed out, abandoned all three points recommended by the general board and also abandoned the rock-bottom limit. Parity was abandoned and inferiority accepted, and the admiral regards the inferiority as constituting a very serious peril to our commerce.

Discovery of Joker.

Discovery of the joker whereby Great Britain is permitted to have 19 cruisers in the 8-inch-gun subcategory while the United States is permitted only 16 during the life of the treaty came as a distinct surprise.

Admiral Reeves showed that the British are first allowed 15 in that subcategory and also are allowed 4 ships of the Hawkins class carrying guns practically equal to the 8-inch caliber and beyond the 6.1-inch guns of the other subcategory. The ships of the Hawkins class total 39,426 tons.

At the conclusion of the treaty, Admiral Reeves testified, Great Britain may have built or building 23 8-inch-gun ships, and retention of the Hawkins class would no longer be important. The cruiser tonnage at the conclusion of the treaty would be, the admiral explained, United States, 337,600; Great Britain, 425,350. The ratio at the end of the treaty would be United States, 5; Great Britain, 6.3, it was stated.

Jones, Pringle Views Supported.

Replying to questions from Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Senators Johnson, Shipstead and LaFollette, Admiral Reeves repeated the contentions of Admiral Hilary Jones, members of the general board and Admiral Pringle, president of the Naval War College.

"It is not the common sense way of affording security to American commerce," the admiral added, after explaining that the vast preponderance of naval opinion insists that the American program of building 8-inch-gun ships is necessary.

Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of Naval Aeronautics, told the naval affairs committee yesterday morning that he favored provisions for aircraft carriers and indorsed the treaty. Admiral A. J. Hepburn, who was in London with Admiral Pratt, also indorsed the pact.

Saturday Closing Planned in Stores

Final Details of Summer Hours Now Being Arranged.

The large downtown department stores in Washington will be closed all day Saturday during July and August with the exception of the last Saturday in August, it was decided yesterday by the department store section of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association which is made up of the proprietors of the large department stores.

The stores will also be closed all day on Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day. A questionnaire is now being sent to all other members of the association to determine what they plan to do in regard to summer hours. Details of summer closing hours will be announced as soon as this information is compiled. Coal merchants have decided to close their yards all day Saturday during June, July and August.

Coast Guard Wins Two Rum Chases

Seven Held, Boat Captured After Pursuits in New York Harbor.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard won two skirmishes with harbor liquor craft today, arresting seven men and capturing one boat. The other was set afire by its crew and sank.

The first encounter occurred when a Coast Guard cutter, under command of Chief Boatswain's Mate J. S. Barrett, saw a launch skirting the Staten Island shore without lights before dawn. In the ensuing chase shots were fired and the fugitive three-man crew, seeing that escape was impossible, set their craft afire. They were picked up by the cutter, but the boat sank off Perth Amboy, N. J.

At almost the same time another cutter in charge of Chief Boatswain's Mate Otto Estad gave chase to the launch Annabelle, finally ramming it near Robbins Reef and arresting the four members of the crew. Most of the cargo had been jettisoned during the chase, but 100 sacks of liquor were seized.

After promising again not to annoy Amster, who sailed yesterday for Europe, Miss Edwards obtained court permission to go abroad, and was given custody again of her child, Lee Edwards.

In an actress it's Personality

in a cigarette it's Taste

IT TAKES SOMETHING MORE than good looks to hold the center of the stage—and something more than mere mildness in a cigarette to win the popularity that Chesterfield enjoys.

IT'S THE TASTE, of course—and there's a lot of difference between mildness alone and mildness with taste . . . between ordinary tobaccos and quality tobaccos . . . between ordinary blending and the Chesterfield blend.

TASTE A CHESTERFIELD! — Mildness is there, of course, but much more . . . delicate richness, fragrant aroma, and—"TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

WESTERN MARYLAND ALMSHOUSE URGED

Central Institution Favored Following Report of State Committee.

PLANS WILL BE DRAWN

Establishment of a central almshouse for western Maryland was advocated in the report of Lacy Shaw, chairman of the subcommiatee appointed to make a survey of almshouses, which was approved by the almshouse committee appointed by Gov. Ritchie, at a meeting yesterday in Baltimore. The subcommittee reported that its investigations had resulted in the conviction that a centralied almshouse is much better for both State and inmate than the present plan of individual almshouses.

In addition to the economic and efficiency advantages of the plan, there is a much better provision for the inmate, Mr. Shaw, who is vice president of the Montgomery County Commissioners, reported. More efficient buying is permitted by the larger volume of purchases, and the factor of safety also was advanced. Witht he provision of a centralized home, a modern fireproof building with up-to-date conveniences can be provided where hospital treatment will be possible.

593 Inmates Affected.

It was learned there are 593 inmates of the various county almshouses as a result of a questionnaire sent out by Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, secretary of the commission, to all Western Maryland almshouses. Indications of further increase each year in this number point to the centralized plan as the most efficient, she said.

The commission voted to instruct Maj. Howard W. Cutler, Silver Spring architect, to proceed with preparation of plans for a unit almshouse which would accommodate 700 inmates and serve all of Western Maryland. Four segregations are to be provided, male and female, white and colored. The resolution was introduced by Mrs. Maude S. Gardiner, representing St. Mary's County.

The plans are to provide for hospital facilities which will care for 10 per cent of the inmates at any given time. Maj. Cutler also was directed to obtain preliminary estimates of the cost of construction.

Plans to Be Ready in Fall.

The plans are to be presented at the next meeting of the committee September 25 at the Francis Scott Key Hotel, Frederick. The report and recommendations of the committee will be prepared at this meeting and forwarded to Gov Ritchie for presentation to the State Legislature.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Ritchie to inquire into the feasibility of such an almshouse for Western Maryland. A similar commission was appointed for the Eastern Shore. The project has the backing of the clubwomen of the State.

GUEST OF CREAGER MADE ILL BY POISON

Woman Swallows Potion After Leaving Dallas Dinner Table.

MISTAKE THEORY HELD

Dallas, Tex., May 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. R. L. Works, 25-year-old wife of a Brownsville, Tex., physician, tonight was recovering from poison taken while attending a dinner party given by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, at a hotel here last night.

Mrs. Works was removed to a hospital after she was given emergency treatment in a room of the committeeman's hotel suite.

Mr. Creager said in a prepared statement that Mrs. Works became indisposed at the table, and, at the suggestion of one of the other women, went to his suite to rest. After an interval, he said, two of the other women followed her to the suite to ascertain how she was feeling, and shortly thereafter the rest of the party followed.

"In some manner unknown," the committeeman said, "Mrs. Works had obtained a small bottle of—(Mr. Creager named a disinfectant) and—in the belief of all of the other members of the party—through mistake, she undertook to gargle her throat, evidently swallowing a portion of the liquid.

"Mrs. Works is the wife of a prominent physician of Brownsville and a lady of the highest standing. None of her friends believe the taking of the liquid was other than an unfortunate accident."

Police attention was called to the affair when a news vender near the hotel picked up a piece of a bottle and handed it to the police with a report that the bottle had crashed to the street near him. Two policemen went to Mr. Creager's suite to investigate.

According to information given the police and shown on their records, Mrs. Works, accompanied by two other women, came to Dallas to attend a church convention. Dr. Works was expected here tonight.

Excursion Ship Here, Ready for Summer

Heralding the advent of the summer season among pleasure craft on the Potomac River, the excursion liner City of Washington moored yesterday afternoon at the Seventh street wharves after a leisurely run from her home port at Wilmington, Del.

Bearing numerous improvements, the Wilson Line boat is ready for the inauguration of its customary daily trips on the river to Chapel Point. Without attempting to set any records, the craft in proceeding here yesterday clocked its time from the point at 3 hours and 15 minutes. With a capacity of 2,200 passengers, the boat is built along spacious lines, with four decks, a large dance floor, two attractive tea rooms and other features. An innovation this year has been the substitution of a large number of caned chairs and folding chairs for canvas stools.

Man Loses Fresh Fight Against Hotel Beacon

Leslie E. F. Prince, who has offices in the Investment Building, yesterday lost his second fight to have the District Commissioners order the Wardman Park Hotel to discontinue the brilliant searchlight air beacon which is displayed nightly on its roof.

The Board of Commissioners told Mr. Prince that if he wanted to continue his fight he should take the matter to the courts. Mr. Prince sought to have the former Board of Commissioners order the light extinguished. He said that the light was an advertisement and was displayed in violation of zoning regulations prohibiting advertising displays in residental neghborhoods.

SEAT PLEASANT MAN FACES ARSON COUNT

Marylander Will Be Given Hearing on Charges in $150,000 Blaze.

COMMERCE DINNER SET

Melvin Palmer, 21-year-old Seat Pleasant resident, will be given a hearing tomorrow morning before Justice of the Peace H. W. Gore in Upper Marlboro on charges of arson. Palmer is at liberty on bond of $5,000.

The charge was placed in connection with the $150,000 fire at Seat Pleasant which totally destroyed the hardware and lumber store and post-office of F. L. Watkins, which was followed by two smaller fires, all of which appeared to be of incendiary origin. Palmer was arrested by Detective Joseph Daugherty, of the fire marshal's office in Baltimore, and County Policeman Frank P. Prince and questioned at length in the office of Sheriff Charles S. Early. His arrest followed a report by a milkman that a man answering Palmer's description had attempted to interfere with his efforts to extinguish a fire in one of the small stores which were set afire several days after the Watkins fire.

The citizens of the town also are interested in the question of liability for property damage if any of the planes should fall in the town or otherwise cause damage ot property. This also will be taken up by the committee.

The mayor and council of Mount Rainier have decided to pay the costs of the taxpayers' suit filed in circuit court at Upper Marlboro questioning the legality of the bond issue sold by the town to provide funds for street paving. The action was taken at the request of Corporation Counsel Bird H. Dolby, who pointed out that the bonds could not be sold until the costs had been provided for and the suit discharged by Attorney Charles B. Calvert, who filed the suit.

B. E. Sager has been reappointed town clerk and treasurer at a salary of $90 per month.

The mayor and council of Hyattsville has ordered the construction of a concrete street 30-feet wide on Part avenue through the Schoepf property to Rhode Island avenue, a distance of 300 feet. J. Spence Howard was named engineer in charge of the project which is expected to be completed this summer.

Richardson, of the University of Maryland, will be the prinicpal speaker at the graduation exercises of the Hyattsville Elementary School, June 17, in the National Guard Armory, Mrs. H. M. ## Deposed Persian Shah's Will Filed

Eight Temporary Wives Given $1,000 Annuity; Children, $600.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The will of the late Sultan Ahmed Kadjar, dethroned as Shah of Persia in 1925, was filed here today, dividing the bulk of his estate among his mother, three daughters and a son.

The Sultan died last February in Paris. Eight "temporary wives," or sigheh, were left an annuity of $1,000 each, with an additional $600 a year for each of the shah's legitimate children until they attain the age of 20. Queen Malekeh-Djahan, of Paris, the mother, receives all her son's real estate in Persia.

The sultan was dethroned as absolute ruler of Persia when he refused to return to his throne after a protracted European tour. He had succeeded his father, Muhammad Ali, who abdicated in 1909, when only 11 years old. The Kadjar dynasty had ruled Persia since 1779.

TEN-CENT CAR FARE COURT FIGHT OPENS

Companies Ask Injunction Forcing Utilities Body to Give Increase.

ORDER ONCE REFUSED

Hearing on the Capital Traction and Washington Railway & Electric companies' petitions for 10-cent street car fare got under way yesterday, before Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court.

Both companies, after losing suits before the Public Utilities Commissior, filed petitions in the Supreme Court asking that body to review what had been done by the commission, and to issue a mandatory injunction to enforce the commission to put into effect the 10-cent rate.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat recently refused to issue a mandatory injunction, setting out that the effect of such an order would have been to effectively put into effect the 10-cent street car fare. At that time, he declared that in his opinion the case should be heard on its merits.

The car fare muddle originated several months ago when Congress sought to merge the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. While this movement has never reached fruition, it is still pending.

Justice Bailey in continuing the hearing, fixed next Monday as the date when it is to be resumed.

Attorney G. Thomas Dunlop represented the Capital Traction Co., while S. Russell Bowen appeared for the other traction company. Richmond B. Keech, recently elected peoples counsel, appeared for the public, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West appeared for the commission.

NEW CRIMES LINKED TO BALTIMORE TRIO

Youths Foiled in Gem Holdup May Be Perpetrators of Philadelphia Theft.

TWO WOMEN DETAINED

Baltimore, Md., May 22 (A.P.).—Evidence linking three youths trapped in a $20,000 jewelry shop holdup here yesterday with an identical holdup in Philadelphia three weeks ago and with complicity in other crimes was claimed by police today after hours of questioning of the three.

With the three captured by police officers after they had trussed up George F. Ruoff, the jeweler, and two patrons, were held another man and two women, arrested shortly after the robbery yesterday at an apartment house where the three youths had been staying.

Police said one of the three had been positively identified as one of six men who three weeks ago held up the Joseph G. Smith Co. in Philadelphia and made away with $18,000 in jewels and money. This alleged identification was made by a Philadelphia witness, Miss Loretta Mount.

Jewelry found at the apartment here, police said, was part of the Philadelphia loot.

The trio taken in the Ruoff robbery were registered as Edward West, Alfred Herring and George T. Meredith, all under 20, and former residents of Jacksonville, Fla. Police said the address was false, however.

The other three held gave as their names Edward and Doris West, married, and Marie Price, each 25.

TARIFF AND EXPORTS.

The sifinificance of the current decline in international trade is grossly distorted. Figures released by the Department of Commerce show that American export trade fell off nearly 20 per cent in value during the first four months of this year. But it should be remembered that 1929 set new records for world trade in the United States and in the world as a whole. The Department of Commerce finds that the current decline, as compared with the first quarters of 1927 and 1928, is nearly all due to decreased prices. The volume of goods sent abroad held up well, considering the business depression, but prices were lower.

Reduction of exports from other countries is reflected in the lower value of imports into the United States. During April the volume of imports fell off nearly twice as fast as did the volume of exports. The decline in trade is not, as some pseudo-economists would have the country believe, a condition that is peculiar to the United States. The purchase of goods has been checked throughout the world, and it appears that foreign trade has declined in about the same proportion as internal business.

The fallacy of the theory that international trade is stifled by the protection of domestic industries is exposed by the phenomenal world commerce of 1929. Many nations have increased their tariffs during the last few years, but commerce has continued to grow. Without the aid of a protective policy the United States could not have attained the position it now occupies as the greatest commercial nation in the world. Protection has allowed its industries to develop to a point where they can enter into competition with foreign enterprise. With quantity production has come efficiency that can not be matched in any other country. This, in turn, has enabled American industry to expand its markets abroad in spite of the higher wage it pays to workmen.

Nothing is more ridiculous than the statement that the United States has built a tariff "wall" about itself. Nearly 70 per cent of all imports into this country enter duty free. America offers the world a greater market than any other country. Other countries admit without duty the products they need and which they can not satisfactorily produce. The net result is that every nation produces that for which its resources are best adapted and permits neighbor countries to supply the remainder of its wants. As long as the people are prosperous there is no danger of a permanent relapse in international trade. It is the duty of every nation to look out for the interests of its own people. By enhancing its own economic standing each country automatically fosters world trade. International commerce is a by-product which inevitably develops from domestic prosperity.

The idea that President Hoover should veto the tariff bill because of "retaliation" by foreign countries is preposterous. All nations apply tariffs, and the United States could point out that its exports are hampered by them, but it never thinks of retaliating.

The tariff bill is nearly completed in conference. The Senate coalition will be beaten if it opposes the conference report. Within a few days the bill should reach the President. That he will approve it is a foregone conclusion.

MR. PINCHOT'S COMING FIGHT.

Assuming that Pennsylvania is half dry and half wet, the nomination of Gifford Pinchot for governor by the Republicans is not equivalent to an election, by any means. The Philadelphia Public Ledger foresees a "battle royal." While the primary vote makes the election of James J. Davis as senator a certainty, it does not insure the election of Mr. Pinchot as governor. The wet and dry question was not a clear-cut issue during the primary campaign. The Bohlen-Phillips wet ticket received a respectable vote, but the Davis-Grundy contest overshadowed other questions, and Mr. Pinchot slipped in because of the divided vote of his opponents, and not because he is a dry.

Now that Pinchot is nominated, the wet-and-dry issue comes to the front in his campaign. He stands well with the workingmen and with the independent reformist element, but he has arrayed against him the strongest political machines in the State, which easily nominated Davis over Grundy. Among these "machines" is the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose president, Gen. Atterbury, was personally the target of bitter attacks by Pinchot. As a conscientious wet Gen. Atterbury would find it very hard to support Pinchot, although as national committeeman Gen. Atterbury is bound to stand by the party nominee. Human nature will be sorely strained in Pennsylvania this year, when wets are called upon to vote for a dry on the plea of party regularity. The Vare machine, which makes no bones of being wet, and whose candidate was beaten in the primary by Mr. Pinchot, may find a way to work its revenge in the November election.

MORROW'S GREAT DANGER.

Gifford Pinchot, a dry, captures the Republican nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania because two other candidates divided the wet vote. Their vote, combined, would have beaten Pinchot by over 200,000.

Dwight W. Morrow and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen are about to divide the wet vote of New Jersey in their contest for the senatorship. Franklin Fort sees his opportunity and comes out as a dry.

New Jersey is undeniably wet, while Pennsylvania is doubtful. But New Jersey is hardly so wet as to be able to split the wet vote and yet defeat a dry.

A three-cornered contest is full of danger to the two who are arrayed against the one. Woodrow Wilson would not have been elected President in 1912 but for the splitting of the Republican vote by Taft and Roosevelt.

In a two-man contest Dwight Morrow would probably win the Republican nomination for senator from New Jersey. But if Frelinghuysen should divide the wet vote with him, look out for Franklin Fort!

RAMSAY MacDONALD'S TROUBLES.

Now that the London naval conference is over Premier Ramsay MacDonald is running into one political snag after another. So long as the conference was in session there was a disposition upon the part of the Liberals to give the MacDonald government a chance to complete its negotiations. But the Liberals now insist upon compliance with their demands. The radical element of the Labor party has also broken away because of the failure of the administration to relieve unemployment.

This radical revolt brought the resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley from the post of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. In quitting the MacDonald cabinet Sir Oswald introduced a resolution at a party meeting severely denouncing the government's unemployment policy, and the indications are that he will carry a motion of censure to the House of Commons. One foremost reason why Britain voted the Labor party into office was its promise of a remedy for unemployment. Its failure in this regard has aroused widespread dissatisfaction which is not confined to the disgruntled element of the Labor party.

The Liberals are ready to break their alliance with the MacDonald administration because of its refusal to sponsor election reforms. The Liberal party is working for a system of proportional representation that would increase its strength in the next election. In the last election the Conservatives polled more votes than Labor, but they elected 27 fewer members to Parliament. The Liberal party cast two-thirds as many votes as Labor, but it elected less than one-fourth as many members. If the MacDonald government agrees to proportional representation its chances in the next election will be seriously diminished, and if it does not agree the Liberals will probably vote with the Conservatives and turn the Labor party out of office.

It appears that the Liberals will have an early opportunity of carrying out their threat, for the Conservatives are opposing the naval treaty which Mr. MacDonald negotiated with the United States and Japan, and they intend to press votes of censure shortly. The unpopularity of the Labor government has been increased by the Snowden budget, calling for an increase in taxation. To add to the prime minister's difficulties the House of Lords has recently been exercising its powers of amendment on administration measures. The Labor party must accept these amendments or delay important bills on agriculture and industry.

With the Labor government hedged in on all sides by issues that may bring its defeat, it is only a matter of how long the MacDonald cabinet will capitulate to its rivals before risking an adverse vote that would result either in a new administration or a general election.

PSYCHOLOGY OF SAFETY.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont has called a general session of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety to meet in Washington May 27, 28 and 29. This is the organization that was called into being by President Hoover when he was serving as Secretary of Commerce and which has assumed leadership of the movement to reduce the annual toll taken by the automobile. The conference sponsored the uniform vehicle code and formulated a model traffic ordinance, both of which are being rather generally adopted in whole or in part, and the forthcoming session will consider suggested changes in the code and ordinance as well as means whereby its general adoption will be speeded. The uniform code and the model ordinance are but two elements in the general program dedicated to the preservation of life and the conservation of property.

Highway safety is a problem so intricate and involved that it has no single solution. A list of topics on which definite research is needed on one or more problems directly related to safety in motor traffic and transportation, prepared by the committee on causes and prevention of accidents of the highway research board is evidence of the intricacy of the problem. Twelve topics are listed in what is described as a "partial" list. They include the design and construction of roadbeds, motor equipment (brakes, headlights, horns, &c.), registration plates (including legibility, effects of coloration and the facilitation of memory), pedestrian movement and control, under and overregulation by law and ordinance, and the education of drivers in the art and science of controlling motor cars and the education of pedestrians. It is impossible, says this committee, to separate the engineering problems from the psychological problems in any organized effort to reduce highway accidents.

The national conference and the several other organizations that are working for highway safety have a difficult road to follow. Their burden is increased by the fact that the average driver and, for that matter, the average pedestrian has shown no willingness personally to cooperate in the campaign. In the final analysis, safe highways depend upon awakening in the public a consciousness of personal responsibility. The engineer can do a good deal to reduce highway accidents, but it would seem that the psychologist can do more.

THE PACIFIST FALLACY

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is suggested by one of our senators that we can avoid defeat in the Pacific by surrendering our possessions there. By another senator the doctrine is advanced that even though our fleet should be defeated we would be "safe if the enemy could not invade us."

Of course, if we are going to adopt these policies and abandon our rights and possessions upon the sea we might as well solve the discussion over the naval treaty by announcing to the world that we will do away with our Navy altogether.

But how far is the process of surrender to be carried? Senators may think that they are "safe" in California and Pennsylvania if we give up our rights upon the sea. Nothing is more certain, however, than that this will not be the case. If our Nation, which has aroused the envy and to some extent the hostility of the world by our wealth and economic superiority, should be so foolish as to adopt the policy suggested by these senators, and place ourselves at the mercy of other nations upon the sea, we will soon be at their mercy on the land.

If our ships and commerce were driven from the sea, and our outlying possessions abandoned, we would be in a state of maritime blockade. Industrial panics would bring chaos and misery even in Pennsylvania and California.

The idea which seems nowadays to be so prevalent that peace can be guaranteed by weakness is a fallacy. The surest way to invite attack is to make it known to the world that we are unable or unwilling to protect our interests. President Wilson's declaration to the world that we were "too proud to fight" had more to do with German attacks upon us and our involvement in the World War than all other influences combined. "Pacifists" who claim that helplessness and disarmament will insure peace are obviously mistaken in their judgment of human nature.

If it were not for the overpowering force which backs up our Government, its laws, executives, legislatures and courts by armed police, armed ships, armed constabulary, armed militia, standing army, life here would be intolerable. If that sanction of force back of judgments and decrees and acts of government should be withdrawn, we would be in a state of intolerable disorder in 24 hours and people would seek relief in despotism as they have done in Italy.

It is exactly the same in our foreign relations. A man does not become a saint or a superman merely because he is a foreigner, although some of our internationalists seem to think so, judging from the implicit trust which they place in the mere good will of the rest of the world toward us. Human nature is the same all over the world.

A decent respect for the rights of others and the ability to defend our own rights and possessions and business upon the sea, as well as upon the land, is the only guaranty of peace in foreign affairs just as it is in our own domestic government.

The greatest incentive and invitation to war would be such national helplessness as is suggested by the senators referred to. The surrender of the Philippines and of Hawaii would not secure peace. It would only lead to an attack on California. The surrender of our foreign trade and international rights and interests in order to be "safe from invasion" would only be an invitation for the invasion of Pennsylvania, and this would very soon take place.

If the Hounds Sneak Under the House, They Have Learned From a Craven Master.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A NEWSPAPER writer says in a recent article: "If Grover Whalen will investigate the religious records of the criminals, he will be surprised to find how many have been very thoroughly trained religiously from their childhood."

That is a characteristic half-truth much more misleading than a complete falsehood.

It says, in effect: "Religious training does no good, for these men became criminals in spite of it, and the training they got was as good as any."

As well say that college training does no good because some college graduates are stupid.

As well say that knowledge of mathematics is useless because some teachers are incapable of making pupils understand.

Being "thoroughly trained religiously" may mean much or nothing.

Religion, ethics and morality can not be taught as geography is.

The student must do more than memorize words.

He must absorb convictions.

The child "trained in religion" by being required to learn sentences in which he has no interest has no more protection against the world's temptations than the child required to learn Mother Goose.

You can't implant convictions by bombarding a child with religious phrases.

You can't make a child moral, ethical and religious by boring it with sentence sermons one minute and cuffing its ears the next, nor can you teach it to revere a religion that permits you to do evil things it can't do because it isn't old enough.

A child is logical and hard to fool.

You can't teach it virtues you don't practice.

There is only one way under Heaven by which a child can acquire the religious and ethical convictions that will keep it decent through life and that is by absorbtion.

That is the child's natural way to learn—to watch its elders and mimic them.

And if parents set an example of pretense and hypocrisy and lip service to virtue, that is what the child will absorb and mimic despite all the "training" that empty words can give.

Nothing is clearer or more easily demonstrable than the fact that these criminals "thoroughly trained religiously" never were taught to do more than share in the meaningless mummery of religious formality.

If they had been given opportunity to absorb from their early environment the reverence for sacred things, the delight in honor and the high pride in decency that are essential to sound character, they wouldn't be criminals.

If the sapling is in poor soil, you can't make it flourish by hanging pretty blossoms on it.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE 1930 CHINESE WAR.

China is having its annual war on time, the 1930 hostilities getting off to a good start with a record attendance of enthusiastic fans. It is the only country operating a war on a regular schedule. This season it is between north China and south China, winners of the 1929 race. The victor will play the Boston Braves.

• • • •

The official march in both armies is "Here Comes the Bribe."

• • • •

It is a recognized fact that the bribe is mightier than the sword in Chinese hostilities and that victory is almost always on the side which has taken in the most money.

• • • •

Reveille in the Chinese army means "open for business." The average officer answers the bugle only to receive cash propositions from all armies playing that day. Then he compares notes and either fights openly with a new team or stays with his own army and forgets to touch second.

• • • •

A Chinese officer is here today and with the nearest business competitor tomorrow.

• • • •

Millions of dollars are spent in bribing officers each year and a soldier is expected to take a dugout on Monday for the honor and glory of one army and surrender it early Tuesday for the honor and glory of another.

• • • •

One of the most touching scenes on a Chinese battlefield is that of a friend and foe, lying out in No Man's Land, striking a balance out of the same ledger.

• • • •

"Join the army and be financially independent in your old age!"

It is reported that this year a big feature of both Chinese armies will be a Christmas savings club!

• • • •

Great battles are being reported daily, but they don't jibe with the facts. It is always a question whether a Chinese general is issuing a victory communique or a movie scenario.

• • • •

After you have read reports of a sweeping Chinese advance for ten days you pay a visit to where the front should be and discover that the victorious army is still back at its original base, but that its impatience to get into action has been allayed by a complete blackboard illustration of the Battle Nobody Fought.

• • • •

Of course, at the end of a season both sides get pretty confused. A financial statement is issued by each army and the one showing the best business year is given the decision and split four for one.

A New York skyscraper hotel is giving all guests a questionnaire asking whether they slept well and if so, how? Well, counting sheep doesn't do any good. From that height the sheep look like moths and you can's segregate 'em.

Suggestion for a complete hotel questionnaire.

1—How much do you resent the overcharge for phone service?

2—Did you ever find any ink in a hotel room inkwell?

3—Could you read all those room notices in less than a four-day stop?

4—Why do you think a "Do Not Disturb" sign on your door always brings a squad of carpenters up to lay a new floor in the corridor?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

BUY A POPPY!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the most worthy public appeals is that of the annual "Buddy poppy sale" which will begin today in Washington and elsewhere throughout the country. No patriotic man or woman should refuse to buy one of these poppies. The money is turned over to the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., which administers to the needs of widows and orphans of "Buddies" who have paid the "last full measure of devotion." Truly a worth-while cause!

Rational Railroad Routes—Best Service Should Be the Rule.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: What the country requires for the greater facility of railroad traffic is not the consolidation of railroad corporations with its block control of regional and parallel lines, but rather the allocation and conjunction of existing rail trackage to produce new independent, direct and through rail routes between principal terminals. Of primary importance are the existing and potential rail routes from Chicago to Pacific, Gulf and Atlantic ports.

The doctrine of greater use should be rigorously applied in trackage allocation. Holdings of trackage should be hooked up for greater service and equalization of traffic density, notwithstanding the howling of 'dogs in the manger' about disturbance of existing channels of transportation. Let the traffic find and settle itself in the best channels. That is to be taken as the rational rule.

Eighteen through routes from Chicago, to the seaboard may be thus laid out:

1. Northwestern and Great Northern.
2. Rock Island and Northern Pacific, including Burlington line from Minneapolis to Chicago.
3. Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.
4. Milwaukee (Omaha line) Union Pacific & Central Pacific.
5. Burlington, Denver & Salt Lake & Western Pacific.
6. Santa Fe extended to Memphis and St. Louis.
7. Southern Pacific extended to Fort Worth and Shreveport over the Texas and Pacific and to Memphis and St. Louis over the Cottonbelt, thence to Chicago over existing trackage.
8. Illinois Central & Missouri Pacific.
9. Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Louisville & Nashville.
10. Chicago & Alton and Frisco system extended to Norfolk and Charleston to include Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, Norfolk Southern, Central of Georgia and necessary connecting trackage.
11. Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville & Southern system.
12. Wabash, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Lehigh Valley, Reading, Western Maryland, Norfolk & Western extended to St. Louis and Memphis and Seaboard extended to Shreveport and New Orleans.
13. Erie, Pere Marquette, Hocking Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio, Clinchfield & Charleston and Western Carolina.
14. Michigan Central, West Shore and Boston & Maine.
15. Nickle Plate extended from Ashtabula to Williamsport, thence to a junction with the New York, Susquehanna & Western.
16. Baltimore & Ohio, Jersey Central and Reading lines from Philadelphia to New York.
17. Pennsylvania, Lackawanna & New Haven.
18. New York Central and Big Four.

These main trackage conjunctions should have priority over all fiscal considerations and corporate combinations. They should be laid down as the ground work for all supplementary and complementary allocations, connections, detachments and extensions.

SAMUEL RUSSELL.

Difficulties of Census Taking—Many Government Employes Failed to Cooperate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "Washington Census," takes a stand which, no doubt, unintentionally reflects on the census-taking machinery of Washington. You stress the necessity of enumerators being honest and accurate and suggest that there may have been many families they overlooked. You are quite right, in the first. Enumerators must cover their territory completely and every one of them was impressed with that standard in every possible manner—by meetings and letters. The office force was distributed at the various precincts and the police themselves cooperated in a most praiseworthy way.

By April 15 Washington had been almost enumerated. It has taken more than a month more to complete the fragments of the work. I do not feel that the fault lies nearly so much with the enumerators, as with the other factor in a census—the people to be enumerated. There have been some absolute refusals, some slamming of doors and like ignorant evasions of the law, but a very great per cent of the names giving difficulty have been those of intelligent people, living comfortably and often themselves in Government employ. Husband and wife both working, the enumerator would visit their homes, often an apartment, four and five times—even twenty times—at all hours, without being able to see them. A family of two pays 8 cents, and often many times that value in carfare and time were expended before these names were obtained. Schedules and envelopes for sealing the information were left with the apartment manager or janitor but this provision was steadily ignored.

Had there been a strong, patriotic feeling to perform a lawful duty and had there been civic pride enough in our citizens to give Washington high rank in order of population the work of the census would have been so encouraged that results must have been more prompt and satisfactory.

JEWS, STRIKING, ASK PEACE AID OF ARABS

Protest Against British Ban on Return to Palestine Held Effective.

REDS DISTRIBUTE BILLS

Jerusalem, May 22 (A.P.).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports that the general strike of Palestine Jewry protesting against the British government's suspension of immigration to Palestine passed today without any untoward incidents or disturbances. Reports from every part of the country indicate that the strike was completely effective.

The Jewish National Council today issued an appeal in the Arabic language to the Arabs in Palestine. The manifesto pointed to the peaceful intention of the strike.

"This day we wish to proclaim the possibility of peaceful common effort of all the residents of Palestine. We call on the Jewish people to mobilize all its forces for the realization of the Jewish National Home."

World Centers Notified.

The Jewish National Council also telegraphed to the Jewish communities in New York, Berlin, Warsaw, Paris, Vienna and other centers, reporting the strike and the reasons that led to it and appealing to the Jews for increased efforts on behalf of the Jewish National Home.

The rabbis have decided that special prayers should be said against the immigration stoppage this Sunday on the eve of the new Jewish month.

The Communist party of Palestine distributed handbills in Yiddish, saying, "We favor a workers' struggle not on behalf of the Zionist immigration but for revolutionary uplifting of the hundreds of millions of slaves within the colonial possessions of the British Empire."

The Chief Rabbinate and the Agudath Israel, world orthodox organization, issued a call for special services in the synagogue this afternoon.

(Associated Press.)

Revocation of the order suspending immigartion to Palestine is urged upon the British government in a statement addressed by Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the administrative committee of the Jewish agency. The statement was handed to the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, in Washington, yesterday, with a request to transmit it to his government. A copy was given to Secretary of State Stimson.

The statement, made public through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, was authorized at a special meeting of the American members of the administrative committee of the Jewish agency at the offices of Mr. Warburg.

Among those present were Bernard Flexner, Judge Julian Mack, Louis Lipsky, David M. Bressler, Solomon Loewenstein, Alexander Kahn, James N. Rosenberg, Mrs. Robert Szold, Gedaliah Bublick, and Rabbi Aaron Teitelbaum.

The Jewish agency, according to the mandate of Palestine, has to advise and cooperate with the administration of Palestine in such economic, social and other matters as may effect the establishments of the Jewish National Home and the interests of the Jewish population.

had been questioned, Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., Secretary of the Navy under President Wilson, denied that politics had anything to do with his opposition to Bishop Cannon. Some members of the audience hissed when Mr. Daniels concluded with the warning that "if you want to strike a deadly blow to prohibition, nominate a man who has had to apologize for stock gambling."

Opponents of Bishop Cannon succeeded in having a record vote taken on the proposed substitution after it had appeared they would be denied even that privilege.

The majority of the committee on temperance and social service, of which Mr. Daniels was chairman, nominated Bishop Cannon and ten others to the board. When the report reached the floor, Dr. W. A. Newell, of Greensboro, N. C., moved that Bishop Smith be substituted and the battle began.

The consecration ceremony for the three new bishops was set for tonight. They are Paul B. Kern, of San Antonio; A. Frank Smith, of Houston, and Arthur J. Moore, of Birmingham.

College Head Named.

W. F. Quillian, president of Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., today was named secretary of the Board of Christian Education, a powerful body formed at this conference by consolidation of the Sunday school, the Epworth League and the education boards. Mr. Quillian received a clear majority on the second ballot.

C. A. Bowen, of Nashville, was chosen secretary of the editorial department of the Board of Christian Education and Sunday school editor, and W. G. Cram, of Nashville, was re-elected secretary of the Board of Missions.

with the industrial and economic systems of this country," adding that there is a surplus of food and clothing in this country but insufficient employment to permit starving and clotheless people to procure them.

Representative Snell (Republican), New York, said evidence had been produced before the rules committee that convinced him that an investigation of activities of Communists is necessary. It was found, he said, that Government departments are unable to cope with the problem under existing laws. If nothing is unearthed, he added, no harm would be done by the inquiry.

Mr. Fish said Communists in America were receiving orders from Moscow and were striving to stir up riots and revolutionary activities. The New Yorker said that they were active among Negroes and industrial sections in the South.

Chairman Johnson, of the House immigration committee, said every member of the House should assist his committee in securing passage of a law at this session to stop immigrants from coming into this country to add to the unemployment problem.

Norfolk, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Lieut. W. E. Kraus, of the Army Air Corps, used his parachute to save his life today when he was thrown from his seat while a plane was about 1,500 feet over Chesapeake Bay.

He was rescued from the water by fishermen. The plane was piloted by Lieut. A. B. Duke.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

IT is time to twine the laurel wreath for adornment of the brave and bulging brow of Daniel O. Hastings, senator from the Du Ponts' State of Delaware.

For sterling courage, for unwavering valor, for divine intrepidity, Mr. Hastings is the bright and morning star of politics.

When, in a gathering of friends and neighbors, he caustically unburdened his soul and unleashed his tongue concerning the Republican progressives, he frankly asserted that, so far as he could see, the best way for a senator to get a lot of newspaper advertising was to jump the party reservation because such a course resulted in invitations to breakfast at the White House and other delightful attentions from the President, while the hard-working regulars were left out in the cold, unbanqueted and unsung.

The next morning when, to his surprise and momentary consternation, he saw his remarks quoted in the newspapers, he neither quailed nor went back on what he had said.

* * * *

AND in that he proved himself a rare and charming individual—particularly in the eyes of newspaper writers. Often, painfully often, the politician or statesman who finds himself quoted in the press to his own discomfiture takes to instant and ignominious flight.

Drawing himself to his full and commanding height, assuming a look of Jove-like wrath, scowling darkly and muttering morosely, he lifts up a Judas voice and, in a coyote yelp, informs all and sundry that he has been misquoted, that he never said anything remotely resembling what he is represented as having said, and, that, not if he lived a thousand years and well into the innocuous desuetude of palsied senility, could he ever be so dumb, dense and dull as to entertain those damning and indefensible views.

* * * *

BUT Senator Hastings is made of sterner stuff. He sticks by what he said, even though he said it under the fond delusion that his statements would never parade across the front pages of the morning press.

Having declared that party repels get all the advertising, he still declares it. Having lamented that the President is sweet on the bolters, he still laments it. Having mourned the fact that the old reliables of Republicanism are neither fed nor patted on the back, he continues his bemoaning. And anybody who doesn't like it can lump it!

Refreshing figure! Mighty man! Perfect politician!

Let's hope that there is truth in the rumor that he is about to found a Union of Politicians Unafraid, or the Golden Circle of the Viscounts of the Valiant and Unvarying Voice.

Mr. Hastings, we salute you! With the laurel wreath we crown you Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Statesmen who, when Disquieted by Quotation, Take not to the Tall Timbers of Brazen Denial.

the three great branches of anthropoid apes-gorillas, chimpanzees and orangs began to differ from each other. The other side held that man appeared somewhere after the orang had split away from the two other ape tribes.

The missing link is a skull with teeth, found five years ago at Taungs, South Rhodesia, Africa. The teeth gave the clew to something new, and the study has just been completed by Raymond A. Dart, of the University of Witwatersrand, whose report was headed by Dr. William K. Gregory, of Columbia University.

The skull was found in a limestone cave, with indications that it was about 1,000,000 years old. It may even have belonged to the much-sought pliocene era, more than 1,000,000 years ago, whose soil has never yet yielded fully accepted proof of human existence.

This cave was the home of baboons of a type now extinct. The skull was that of a child-creature, estimated at about three years. It attracted attention because brain pan and the fore part were slightly more voluminous than those of chimpanzees of the same age.

It still bore its milk teeth, but they were difficult to examine. Now Dr. Dart finds that the adult canine teeth of this infant, instead of being of the sharp and fang-like order, as are those of gorillas and chimpanzees, resemble teeth of human babies. Furthermore, by X-rays Dr. Dart finds thtat the adult canine teeth in this kind of creature were smaller than those of apes.

"This find," said Dr. Gregory, "tends to support Darwin's original theory and indicate that man arose in South Africa. The fossil is regarded by many scientists as the most important find yet made connecting man and the apes."

DIAL PHONE BATTLE SPREADS TO HOUSE

Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, pointed out that the dials had resulted in the dropping of many telephone operators.

"I know that," said Senator Glass, "and I object to being transformed into a telephone operator myself without compensation."

The resolution was adopted without a roll call vote, many senators smiling at the action. Under its terms the sergeant at arms will ask the telephone company to return the old-fashioned telephones within 30 days.

Senator Glass was complimented by Senator Ashurst (Democrat), of Arizona, for the "moderation" of his language, and declared that the Congressional Record might not go through the mails if it contained "what senators think about the dial telephones."

U. S. Editors End British Isles Tour

Three Page Fellows Call England Progressive as America.

London, May 22 (A.P.).—Three widely known American newspapermen today wound up a three-weeks' tour of England and Scotland as holders of the Walter Hines Page Memorial Fellowships, established by the English Speaking Union.

The editors, who are accompanied by their wives, are Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution; Stuart Perry, of the Adrian, Mich., Telegram, and Robert P. Scripps, of the Scripps-Howard newspapers. Today they attended a luncheon at which Lord Burnham, former proprietor of the Daily Telegraph, presided, and tonight a reception at the home of Lady Ravensdale, daughter of the late Lord Curzon.

During their stay in England the Americans have met the Prince of Wales, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin and David Lloyd George. The editors said they are returning to America with the impression that the United States can not teach England much when it comes to hustling.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Society Sees Net Stars Vie For Davis Cup

First Day of Tourney Favored by Fine Weather.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Davis Cup players drew glorious tennis weather for the first round of their three-day matches at the Chevy Chase Club. Warm sunshine and a light breeze spelled perfection yesterday afternoon for members of the United States and Mexican teams involved in the tourney and the women in the enthusiastic gallery had blossomed out in bright colored sports frocks in deference to the summer day.

Mrs. Hoover, an ardent tennis fan, who attended the Davis Cup matches last season, was not able to be present yesterday, nor will her physician permit her to attend while the matches are in progress. However, the White House box was occupied by a distinguished group, including Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Mrs. James J. Davis, Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, wife of the new Assistant Secretary of War, and Mrs. Samuel McMullen. Lieut. Eugene Regnier, aid to the Secretary of State, was on "escort duty" and Capt. Joel T. Boone, the President's physician, spent most of the afternoon in the box.

With the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Tellez in Chicago, where he had long been booked to make two important addresses, their box was occupied by Dr. Don Pablo Campos-Ortiz, first secretary of the embassy; Senora de Campos-Ortiz and other members of the staff, enthusiastic rooters for their compatriots. The Ambassador of Mexico hopes to time his return so that he and Senora de Tellez may be present at the finals on Saturday.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay were present through the afternoon, entertaining guests in their box, and Countess Szechenyi visited with them for a bit. Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay were garbed in the same shade of brown, Lady Lindsay's thin crepey gown, which was figured all over with pin dots of a lighter tone, being topped off with a most becoming brown hat. Countess Szechenyi wore a becoming costume of French blue crepe figured in beige and a hat of bright blue baku.

Mrs. Stimson wore a dark blue gown, with a black hat, and Mrs. Hurley was also in blue. Over a gown of figured blue and white crepe she had a coat of plain blue and her blue baku hat was trimmed with white felt in design suggestive of pinwheels. Mrs. Davis' costume was of printed silk in rose and blue and was worn with a blue hat. She was constantly surrounded by friends offering congratulations on Secretary Davis' successful campaign for the Senate nomination.

With the Spanish Ambassador, Senor Padilla, was his daughter, Senorita Maria Padilla. The Minister of Sweden, Mr. Bostrom, who is a crack tennis player, was among enthusiastic members of the gallery, as was Maj. Georges Thenault, of the French Embassy, also a tennis player of no mean ability, who was accompanied by Gen. Raymond Casanave, military attache of the French Embassy.

The German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz, who expect to attend the matches today, had given their box yesterday to members of the embassy staff. The group included the First Secretary and Frau Lohman, the Second Secretary and Frau Leitner, Miss Rebecca Wellington, Dr. Emil Baer and Herr Alexander von Wuthenau.

Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien were hosts to an interesting little group, their guests including Baron and Baroness van der Elst, Miss Caroline Roebling and her fiance, Mr. Alexander Hagner. Baroness van der Elst, who was Miss Allison Roebling, has come to Washington to be matron of honor at the marriage of her sister and Mr. Hagner on June 7. Both girls had chosen the smart sleeveless sports frocks, which were favored by many of the women viewing the tennis matches, although knitted suits in rose, golden yellow and green were equally popular. Baroness van der Elst was all in white and Miss Roebling had chosen a becoming blue frock, with which she wore a large white hat.

Mme. Paul Lessinoff had as guests in her box the Secretary of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Popovici, Mr. and Mrs. William North Sturtevant and Mr A K. Bojsen. Another interesting box party included Mrs. Wilmer Allison, bride of a crack member of the United States Davis Cup Team, who wrested victory from a member of the Mexican Team in hotly contested sets, and Mr. and Mrs. Ware, the former a Davis Cup champion. Nearby in a box were Miss Francesca McKenny, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper DuBose and Mr. Moran McConihe. With Mrs. Mark Brook were Mrs. Upshur Moorhead, Miss Alice Shepard, Miss Hallie Brooke, Mr. Walter Wilcox and Mr. Edward Van Devanter.

Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Noyes had with them the latter's sister, Miss Ellen Cox Ewing. Mrs. Louise White Irwin entertained guests in Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips' box and had with her Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon Jones, Mrs. William G. Barnewall, of Warrenton, and Miss Ruth Irwin.

Between sets, ices and cooling drinks were dispensed by members of the Junior League, who did a rushing business at gaily decorated booths erected behind the courts. Clad in green smocks, many of them with gay bandanas for headgear, the Junior League girls contributed materially to the charm of the picture. Among those on duty were Miss Loranda Prochnik, Miss Laura Tuckerman and Miss Charlotte Childress.

Gay little Japanese parasols were much in evidence and several ladies not so provided improvised screens to protect themselves from the burning sun. Mrs. Frederic Atherton, for example, had so arranged her scarf over her hat that it framed her face much in the manner of a yashmak. Mrs. Tasker Oddie, wearing a smart green knitted suit and a green hat, was glimpsed in the gallery, as was Mrs. William M. Jardine, with her pretty daughter, Miss Marian Jardine.

Other spectators were Mrs. Henry D. Flood, Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. Armistead Peter 3d, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Newell Tucker, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Francis White, Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mrs. George Akerson, Mrs. Karl Klemm, Mrs. I. T. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Eyniions, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Waggaman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Miss Sallie Hews Phillips, Mrs. Theodore N. Gill, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Miss Dorothea Lane, Miss Bina Day Deneen, Mrs. Theodore P. Noyes, Mrs. Melville Church, Miss Marjorie Talman and Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe.

The anniversary night further served to introduce the series of midweek dinner dances which continue through the season.

Spanish Envoy Entertains at Birthday Fete

Embassy Decorated for Anniversary Event to Honor King.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla entertained last evening at a reception in celebration of the birthday anniversary of King Alfonso. The king's birthday occurred Saturday, but the ambassador was then in New York taking part in a celebration arranged by the Spanish colony, so the official "birthday party" in Washington was set for last evening.

Beautifully designed for entertaining, the embassy was more than usually gay, the drawing rooms lavishly decorated with early summer flowers. A large group of officials, diplomats and resident society folk had been invited to the reception and to the musicale which followed.

Mme. Lucrezia Bori, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, a distinguished Spanish artiste, had come to Washington especially for the fete and presented a group of songs. Supper was served in the patio, with a string trio playing softly in the offing.

The flag of Spain flies from the white mansion in upper Sixteenth street, which was built by Mrs. John B. Henderson, and which she offered to the United States Government as a permanent residence for the Vice President. The gift was refused, with suitable expressions of gratitude, on the plea that it would require a large subsidy to maintain it; and afterward the house was purchased by the Spanish government.

Mrs. Thomas H. Birch, of New York, and her sister, Mrs. Eugene S. Dorey, of Philadelphia, are guests at the embassy.

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, who has been abroad for several weeks, will arrive in New York today on the Aquitania and will come to Washington tomorrow.

Sturtevant-Johnson Nuptials Date Set.

Miss Henrietta Forbes Johnson, daughter of Capt. Thomas Lee Johnson, U. S. N., and Mrs. Johnson, of Newport, R. I., has chosen June 14 as the date of her marriage to Mr. Theodore Clark Sturtevant. The wedding will take place in the Berkeley Memorial Chapel at Middletown, R. I. Miss Johnson is a granddaughter of Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen Forbes, of Washington, and the late Gen. Forbes, U. S. A.

The picturesque little chapel where the wedding will take place was built more than a hundred years ago by the Sturtevant family, and has been the scene of all marriages in that family. A reception will follow at the Naval Training Station, Newport.

Shortly after the wedding the bride-elect will be graduated from the School of Architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She was educated abroad, and, while her father was Naval Attache at the American Embassy in Paris, was presented at the Court of St. James. Capt. Johnson is in charge of the Naval Training Station at Newport, and was formerly commandant at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Mr. Sturtevant and his bride will live in Newport.

Pilgrimage Planned To Fredericksburg.

For those who make the pilgrimage to Fredericksburg next Tuesday, arranged by the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, luncheon will be served on the lawn of Kenmore, home of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington. Washington designed the fine mantels, which are a feature of the old mansion, now preserved as a shrine, and they were executed by Hessian prisoners detailed to the task. Shrubs and trees in the garden, some of which are still living, were planted by George Washington. The association sponsoring the pilgrimage was organized 42 years ago in Williamsburg, the colonial capital of Virginia.

Among the patrons and patronesses for the pilgrimage are Senator and Mrs. Carter Glass, Representative and Mrs. Richard Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Quinn., Mrs. William J. Harris, Mrs. Charles W. Warden, Mrs. Chauncey C. Williams, Mrs. Henry Gordon Clay, Mrs. Howard D. Hodgkins, Miss Jessie Dell, Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, who will entertain the pilgrims at tea at Rippon Lodge; Mrs. Mary Duncan Abbe, Mrs. A. R. # POLICE EMPHASIZE PEDESTRIAN RIGHTS

Average Walker Has Only Slight Idea of Extent Law Protects Him.

MUST EXERCISE CAUTION

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Pedestrian rights, a few of which Washington motorists now are learning under police tutelage, are vastly broader than is generally realized. The walker's right to use any part of the street, so far as obtaining legal redress in event of injury, is virtually unabridged by any law or regulation on the statute books of the District of Columbia or any State.

While the police go about their task of telling thousands of motorists what they already should know about invading cross-walks, a digest of recent court decisions indicates that the motor vehicle operator is truly informed only when he makes every concession to the pedestrian. The digest leaves little doubt that the courts regard the pedestrian, like the king, as virtually incapable of wrong-doing.

Five striking points, a majority of them entirely contrary to the average motorist's opinion, are involved in the digested decisions. They are that:

Rights of Pedestrians.

The pedestrian has the right to use all parts of the street or highway, being chargeable only for the exercise of a due amount of care.

The pedestrian hit and injured in the center of the street can not be considered as negligent because he was there instead of on the sidewalk.

The pedestrian is not guilty of negligence because he fails to look behind him. The pedestrian is not bound, as a matter of law, to be looking and listening continuously to see if motor vehicles are approaching.

The rule of reasonable precaution requires that the driver be certain the pedestrian is aware of the approach of his vehicle at such a distance as to avoid striking him.

The driver who strikes a pedestrian because he was blinded by the sun or lights can not escape responsibility by offering this as an excuse.

Obligations of Motorist.

Safety experts, legal authorities and traffic officials agree that there are but two things for the motorist to do in the face of these decisions. The first of these is to cast into the discard the falsely cherished assumption of sharply defined rights for the motor car operator. The second is to give the pedestrian every advantage within reason instead of usurping the more obvious of his perogatives.

The latter practice on the part of thousands of Washington drivers is generally regarded as the cause of one of the most deplorable of traffic conditions here. Ignorance or malicious usurpation of pedestrian rights, as mysterious as it is complete, exists with regard to two of the most fundamental rights pedestrians enjoy in the National Capital, it is pointed out.

The most important of these is the walker's right-of-way over right-turning motor vehicles at intersections controlled by either traffic lights or policemen. There is absolutely no qualification of this right of way.

There is but one thing the motorist can do. That is to wait until he can turn without slowing or stopping a pedestrian.

Invasion of Crosswalk.

The second usurpation of rights, even most common, is invasion of the crosswalk, the object of the present educational campaign by the police. The area between the white lines at a street intersection belongs as definitely to the walker as does the safety zone, loading platform, or the sidewalk itself.

With regard to the digested decisions, two are of outstanding significance in the opinion of most observers. The first is that dealing with the pedestrian's right to use any part of the highway by showing responsible care. The second is that the motorist may not use as a legal excuse in a pedestrian mishap the claim that he was blinded by approaching headlights or the sun.

The first vitally limits the right-of-way which all motorists assume between street intersections. In it the court decrees that reasonable care is all the jay-walking pedestrian must show. Reasonable care is significantly interpreted in the third decision cited that "the pedestrian is not bound, as a matter of law, to be looking and listening continuously to see if motor vehicles are approaching."

Cooperation by Pedestrians.

Against the broad rights which the courts declare him to have and which the motorist should give him, traffic officials point out that the pedestrian holds it within his power to better his own position by cooperating intelligently in traffic movement.

A long step in the direction of smoother and safer traffic flow will have been taken, they feel, when the motorist gives the pedestrian his basic rights.

The element of traffic under strictest legal control, the motorist must first be made to keep his proper place. The courts have left no doubt on this point in the minds of traffic authorities.

RIGID RULE IN INDIA STOPS SALT RAIDS

Steady Run on Bank Begins After Report Manager Had Aided Police.

GANDHI HEALTHY IN JAIL

Bombay, India, May 22 (A.P.).—British and Indian troops were so firmly established in control of the several salt-raid zones tonight that further attempts at civil disobedience demonstrations by the natives became out of the question.

Dharasana was under martial law. Troops were bivouacked on the scene of yesterday's serious encounters in which about 600 Hindu demonstrators were injured. If the followers of Mahatma Gandhi expected to execute further raids upon government salt pans they made no sign tonight.

It was the evident intention of the government to put an end to the Dharasana disturbances, for all time if possible.

Run on Bank Opens.

With this situation well in hand a new threat against peace in India appeared on the northwest horizon. The Haji of Turangzai was reported to have stationed a seriously large number of his followers within striking distance of Peshawar. Government authorities today considered the need of further strengthening the armed forces in that region.

A run on the bank of India, started yesterday because natives said the manager had aided police repressing salt raiders, continued today in spite of the directors' statement that he had no part in the police activities.

The authorities found it necessary to adopt the belief that other influences were prolonging the run and causing virtually all nationalist depositors to withdraw their funds.

Arrests for disobedience in degrees varying from mild offenses to sedition are continuing throughout India, the prisoners in all cases being given prompt trials.

Gandhi in Good Health.

A letter written by Mahatma Gandhi to one of his sons and made public today indicated that the "holy one" was very complacent in his confinement in prison and enjoying excellent health.

A government statement said that in yesterday's round-up of raiders at Dharasana only three or four were seriously injured.

A store of dynamite surreptitiously removed from a freight car at Karachi, today had vanished utterly in spite of the most diligent effort to locate it.

Surat today received a detachment of Indian calvary numbering 250, who rode into town with complete field equipment and bristling with machine guns.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLEASE tell me the kind of shrubs suitable for planting on the north side of my garden.
MRS. R. C. S.

Regel's privet, California privet, rhododendron and barberry will all grow with little sun.

For Christmas 1928 we received a poinsettia with a single flower. Last spring we set it outdoors in the flower bed where it continued to grow. Last fall we repotted it and so far it is growing well. It has now started to branch (like drawing). Now if this was your plant and you wanted it to bloom next Christmas how would you treat it from now until December 25?
MRS. MAINE M.

Plunge pot in flower bed in some sunny location as soon as the weather permits. Keep it well watered until Christmas and at all times keep it in the sun. When you plunge the pot in the open in late May cut the plant back one-third. When you lift it to bring it into the house in the fall renew one-third of the soil in the pot with good rich loam, and give it a cupful of liquid manure. Usually a poinsettia should be cut back in late August, but your plant must be treated a little differently because it did not bloom during the last season.

Please tell me the name of the species of begonia from which I am inclosing a leaf. Also tell me how to get rid of insects which are injuring the plant. SARAH B.

Your begonia is a begonia gracilis luminosa. If you spray the foliage with cold, soapy water you will soon get rid of the insects.

My problem is this: My garden is small and the soil last season did not produce good blossoms. I had zinnias that did fairly well; that was all. What fertilizer would you suggest my getting from the seedhouse, for this must be my source of supply. Also tell me what to plant in three stone vases which are grouped about a low stone wall. The house faces the north, so the plants will get no sun at any time. MRS. ANNE J. B.

Bonemeal is one of the best fertilizers for flowers, because it contains not only nitrogen but phosphorus. It may be used in such quantities that it whitens the soil. There is no danger of applying too much. If your vases must be in more or less shade, all you need to do is to fill them with foliage plants such as ferns, pandanuses, English ivy, variegated vincas, rubber plants or crotons.

Please tell me how to counteract rust which sooner or later always attacks my hollyhocks.
EMILY A.

For rust, or blight, the most efficacious remedy is made by dissolving two teaspoonfuls of copper carbonate in one-half cupful of water. Add to this 6½ gallons of water. Apply this spray twice a week, using it full strength. Hollyhocks that are grown in the same place for a number of years are apt to be troubled with rust. It causes little trouble among young, vigorous plants.

Please tell me whether the Peruvian daffodil blooms in summer.
ALMA J. L.

Yes, the ismene catalina (Peruvian daffodil) blooms in summer. Bulbs may be started in the open the middle of May.

Please give me some suggestions about the proper way to place montbrethia bulbs. ANN G. T.

Bulbs should be planted out in early spring, in clumps of a dozen or more, placing the bulbs 3 to 6 inches apart.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Touches of black and touches of yellow enhance an ensemble of yellow, black and white tweed. (Courtesy of Tollman, Paris.)

Paris, May 22

APROPOS of yesterday's discussion about the tea hour I am reminded of course that there are certain seasons in the year when it is more appropriate to have an established tea hour than others. Also that it is more appropriate to certain parts of the country than to others—in California, for instance, where every now and then I spend some of my time, one loves to jump into the car and go tea-ing in the direction of a country club or something of the sort.

And how I love the early autumn months when every one has his tale of pleasure or adventure to tell, when I whisper into good old Judah's ear to open all the windows so that I can shiver a little and ask her to light the fire in the grate!

Oh, there are times and places for the tea hour, and I pray that it will not take 30 centuries for the American woman to learn!

* * * *

Did I forget to tell you that a famous wit once said that it took a woman 30 years before she knew how to pour tea, 40 before she appreciated the tea hour, 50 before she made the most of it?

Speaking of brown over the teacups, as it were, Molyneux offers a brown print that looks ever so much like lace—and what's a summer's wardrobe without a lace frock for evening?

* * * *

There's an elegance and a perfection to a Tollman model that always inspires me to get busy and write the great American novel so-ez-I can wear Haute Couture models all the time! It was just another tweed, of course—but another tweed and how! A smart one-piece dress, of yellow, black and white tweed in a very fine design that made it look beige-y. Then there was an unusual jacket, a bag, and a hat—and just where they should be and no place else were touches of black or of yellow by way of trimming.

* * * *

It isn't a bit too early to start working on his Christmas present! And if you haven't got $75 or so with which to buy him one of those smart new pyjama and dressing robe sets made of dark crepe de chine which I can tell you right now he would just adore having, you can just sit down and send off a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for an illustrated leaflet which will tell you exactly how to make one of these suits yourself—and very well, too.

* * * *

Fine shadow lace appliqued onto tulle or georgette by hand is almost indescribably lovely and elegant. Certainly the modern woman is learning with the aid of the Haute Couture, the value of not being too striking in appearance, thereby gaining in charm.

* * * *

Only in The Sunday Washington Post, in the Capital, can you find the weekly Dare fashion letter. And you won't regret looking for it each Sunday.

Au Revoir!

MORE WOES FOR DRINKER.

IT IS certain that heavy drinkers are in danger of developing an eruption on the hands and arms which most people call pellagra. It is thought that this eruption results, not from the whisky directly but from the indigestion, starvation, and disturbed nutrition which result from a prolonged debauch. It is the rule that when a man is on a protracted spree he does not eat, or, if he does, what is eaten comes back. A step in breaking up the spree is to get the drunkard to eat and sleep. After a prolonged debauch the stomach is pretty well burned out and can not digest the foods it takes, even if it stays down. There is some disagreement, however, as to whether this eruption is a spurious, or a true pellagra.

Drs. Maloney and Tulipan regard it as pseudo pellagra. They base their opinion on a study of twenty-one cases seen in New York City during the late summer. Most of them were Irish or of Irish descent. None was Jew. In every case the man had been on a prolonged spree lasting four weeks or longer, and during this time he had consumed large quantities of low grade green whisky. Some of it was made from denatured whisky, bay rum, perfume, and other nonpotable alcohols. In each case the stomach was burned out, the digestion upset, and the appetite gone before the eruption appeared. Dr. Maloney and his associate think these were cases of pseudo pellagra because they never had any diarrhea, nor the tongue and esophagus symptoms of pellagra. The eruption was never anywhere except on the hands and arms.

When there were any mental symptoms they were those of alcoholism rather than of pellagra. Deaths were due to alcoholic poisoning rather than to pellagra. It is probably not highly important to decide whether these cases should be called pellagra or pseudo pellagra. If they be two diseases, both are important. Both endanger life and health directly or indirectly. Both can be prevented by following a proper diet. Both can be cured by means of diet.

IT WAS TURPENTINE RASH.

J. S. W. writes: I had a few pimples on the back of my neck and fearing it might be barber's itch, I put all my hand would hold of common turpentine labeled "pure gum turpentine," and placed it all around my neck, ears, &c. Some time later my neck became covered with very small pimples, with here and there a larger one. They began discharging a fluid and increased in great quantities. I could not lie down and could not find relief in any position. This fluid seemed to dry and yet discharged. This continued for at least 30 days. I was informed I had prickly heat.

REPLY.

This was not prickly heat. It was a turpentine rash. Such rashes get well after the cause has been removed. Good care and a little treatment hastens the cure.

A physician might have called this dermatitis venenata.

TREATMENT FOR GOITER.

Mrs. R. H. writes: Is there any cure for a goiter?

REPLY.

Yes. The nature of the curative treatment depends on the kind of goiter and the amount of intoxication.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF May 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m to 3:40 p. m., and from 9:30 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 4:30 a. m. to 6 a. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

There are no golden promises for this date and rather adverse astrological conditions will be in control. It is a difficult time to make any social affairs interesting or successful—they will drag, in spite of the entertainer's efforts, as guests will be in an unresponsive mood.

The child born on this May 23 will be gifted with keen intellect, perseverance and a healthy ambition. It will love to argue, in and out of season, and will display a good sense of logic. It will be rather self-satisfied and selfish in many ways.

You have the true Gemini mental nature, but you also have its restlessness. There is no question of you not being able to learn, but you lack the perseverance and patience to learn or to do things well. Your nature is lacking in calmness, steadiness and self-control. You never stay "put" for a long enough time to get into a rut, but your rolling stone existence is just as disastrous. Your conquests are too varied for you to reap much benefit from your experiences. Yesterday's lessons do not fit you for tomorrow's trials.

As a child you were probably disobedient. As a grown-up, you are probably erratic and helf-willed, and are not inclined to listen to advice. "The first degree of folly is to hold oneself wise, the second to profess it, the third to despise counsel." It is a false pride which prevents you from admitting error. You work very quickly, and you should be clever as a mechanic, or in some occupation which requires nimble fingers. You should have a fairly good business head and you are not slow in recognizing a bargain. You are not a reckless spender—in fact, you are inclined to hoard your capital. For harmony and happiness, you should marry an Aquarius or a Libra person. You will have many changes of residence during your life.

Successful people born May 23:

Charles Backus Storrs, reformer, president Western Reserve University.

James Buchanan Eads, constructor of Mississippi jetties.

Richard Grant White, author and critic.

Ambrose E. Burnside, Governor of Rhode Island and United States senator.

Alfred Pritchard Sloan, General Motors Corporation.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

BOB HEINL, the well-known radio editor of The Washington Post, steps out of his own field to herald the enterprise of a former Washingtonian, Mrs. Alice Park Barney, who is sponsoring a new play on the Pacific Coast. The play, incidentally, is one that Joseph Tumulty has considered writing for some years past—"Woodrow Wilson." This work, however, is not by Mr. Tumulty. Instead, it was written by Maurice Saltzman and dramatized by Eleanor Lawson. What the Los Angeles critics have to say about it is plenty. It seems that the author did not know the war President.

* * * *

YESTERDAY afternoon the National Theater Players, led by Mr. Harold Phillips, journeyed out to Fairfax Court House—to see the sights and have a day away from the heavy traffic of the city. They went out to visit on one of the fine old estates in that section, had tea and played quoits—the refined method of pitching horseshoes. To show that actors are always on the job, Mr. Clifford Brooke, the director, rehearsed one little scene from "The Misleading Lady"—next week's play at the National.

DOWN on Ninth street this week where Hinda Wassau is playing to Standing Room Only, Mr. Jimmy Lake, manager of the Gayety Theater, believes he has the answer to a question often asked, "What's the matter with the show business?" According to Jimmy, "There isn't anything the matter with the show business if you have the shows"—and he has.

* * * *

THERE is an old saying in the theater that a good director should also be able to act, if occasion demands. So Clifford Brooke, director of the National Theater Players, is going to step out on the boards next week and play a part in "The Misleading Lady." The theme of the play has to do with a cute young thing who, testing her acting ability, agrees with her manager to evoke a proposal from a fervid young man before the night is over. There is a week-end gathering at which the young girl not only secures the proposal but permits the guests to do a bit of eavesdropping on the ardorful swain. Naturally, that makes for hilarious laughter.

WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

Last week I explained the meaning in Contract of "artificial" and "conventional" bids. I defined the former as bids whose meaning is based wholly upon prior understanding; and the latter as bids whose meaning depends partly upon such understanding, and I stated the general opinion to be that such bids are necessary to meet the needs of the game. I also promised to suggest a compromise system which would embody the essential characteristics of artificial and conventional bids now in use.

Most Contract players are familiar with the Vanderbilt Club convention which, by a bid of one Club, shows a minimum of three quick tricks and demands an answer from the partner, the reply of one Diamond showing weakness; and neither the Club nor the Diamond bid showing any length or strength in those respective suits. Equally familiar is the "forcing" or "demand" convention, which, by the original bid of two of any suit, shows strength in that suit and in the hand, but also forces the partner to bid; and to which the weakness answer is two No Trumps.

Whether either of these bids gains more than it loses is a matter that has been argued pro and con for the past two years; and it is not my purpose at this time to contribute to that controversy. However, it is possible that such differences of opinion might be reconciled and that some new idea might work better than either old one. I, therefore, propose for trial by the expert player (and to be left severely alone by all others) the elimination of the above artificial and conventional bids and the substitution of an artificial bid of one or two Clubs. Using the two-Club bid would permit the use of one Club for normal purposes; using the one-Club would permit starting lower and give more opportunity for the interchange of information. Which bid to use use conventionally, is a comparatively unimportant matter of detail.

Either artificial Club bid would be used to announce a hand of great strength and would show that the bidder desired to give his partner a choice between two declarations. The two might be either the two majors, a major and a minor, the two minors, or No Trump and a suit. To extend this choice it would be necessary for the original bidder to make two subsequent bids after the purely artificial original bid. Therefore the request conveyed by this Club bid would be that the partner keep the bidding open until the original bidder has had the opportunity to make his two real declarations, the original Club being merely an announcement of that desire, and meaning nothing whatever concerning the Club suit.

Next Friday we will explain how partner would answer, and illustrate how the plan would work.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

"A HARD LITTLE GIRL."

DEAR Miss McDonald: At the present time I have for one of my best friends a man 30 years old. I am 17. First, let me explain why we are friends. I have never had a brother, he never had a sister. I have always wanted some one to love me that way, brotherly love, nothing sentimental. I have never even had the love of my mother or father, since my father is dead, and my mother became so hardened that she pays little attention to me. I met him about two years ago, and was attracted to him. I wanted to know more of him, consequently the friendship grew. I am sure he felt the same about me, too. He calls me on the phone and I call him, he even advises me what I should and should not do. My mother is aware of this friendship, but she is under the impression that it is sentimental. It really is not; I don't think that he even thought of such a thing, I know I did not, we are like brother and sister to each other. Each one filling a gap in each other's empty life. My mother has never even seen him, since we don't really "go" together, just casually meet now and then, but she hates him! She thinks he has "designs" upon me or something, and I can't explain that this is not true. I tell her he is too old, but I really know that girls of my age are going with men older than he, but she says, "Men are never too old, especially men who have been to college." Now how in the world can I make her see that this is not true? Why in the two years I know him he has never even kissed me, and he certainly has had chance enough if he wanted to take advantage of my friendship to make it sentimental. Miss McDonald, you simply can not imagine what I am going through; it is terrible. My mother raves until I think I shall go mad. Of course he does not know this or he would not call me, because he wouldn't think of causing me any trouble, and I wouldn't even consider telling him, because he means too much to me. You can not imagine what he is to me. I never had a real and true friend before, and now my mother is trying to make me lose this one and I won't give him up. A quiet talk with him is all I have left in my dull life. Please print this as soon as possible; it means so much to me. How can I explain to mother? Thank you, Miss McDonald. I'll do whatever you think best for me. PEGGY.

Don't take life so seriously, Peggy, darling! Don't argue with mother. Don't "go mad." No wonder your mother thinks he is the heavy lover! Keep cool. Keep the boy friend. Keep everything that heaven sends your way, but above all keep sweet. And it isn't sweet to feel as you do toward your mother. If life has made her hard, that is a pity, and you should try to make up to her for all the things that she has lost, all the things that life has done to her.

You know, Peggy, when you were just a queer-looking, squirming squally bundle that every one else called "it," your mother used to look at you and think you beautiful, and, dear, and cute, and dream of how happy she would be when you were old enough to return her love. Now, she is all alone. She has lost dad. And it looks as if she had lost you, too. That is not fair, Peggy, and some day when you have a little girl you will know just how unfair it is. Stop quarreling with your mother. When she has gone on to join your dad, you will remember every unkind word and wonder why no one ever warned you to love your mother tenderly while she was near, to love.

No boy, no man can ever love you as your mother loves you. So take mother more seriously, and the man less seriously. Have you ever stopped to think how terrible she must miss your dad? How very hard it must be for her going on alone? You will know some day, Peggy, when you have loved some one, and had a child that was his child. And by that time mother may not be here. So do a little thinking now and a little understanding—and a little loving. For when the time comes that you wear a white flower on Mother's Day all the men in the world, and all their love combined can not make you forget that you were unkind and unloving when you had a mother to love.

Do a little thinking, honey. Fathers are not the only ones who die. Sometimes mothers do.

FRAME OF BUILDING FALLS KILLING TWO

Four-Story Steel Skeleton in New York Collapses With Huge Roar.

NINE SUFFER INJURIES

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—With a roar heard for blocks, the four-story steel skeleton of a bakery under construction at Fifty-first street and Eleventh avenue collapsed today and carried two workmen to their death. Nine were injured.

The dead were Otto Helves, 30, and Albert Schwanke, 30, carpenters and roommates. They fell together, clinging to a steel girder.

The cause of the collapse was not immediately determined, although there were unconfirmed reports that the crash of a derrick had preceded it. The crash attracted a tremendous crowd and police reserves were called to preserve order.

Patrolman Joseph Morrissey, patroling his beat, had stopped for a moment to watch 60 workmen busy four stories above him putting the final touches to the steel framework.

As he stood idly twirling his stick, he saw a girder sway, then another, and before he could cry out the whole great steel skeleton of the building seemed to fold up on itself. He sprinted for a fire alarm box.

With a roar and crash, girders buckled and fell. One was thrown clear across Fifty-first street into the side of a building where many girls were at work.

For over an hour police and firemen searched and then announced the number of dead and injured.

J. C. Robinson, superintendent in charge of construction; Ernest Luke, foreman of steel workers; J. A. Fleming, an engineer, of Grantwood, N. J., and other officials connected with the building were detained by police for questioning.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Funeral processions are given the right of way over ordinary traffic in Washington by the regulation which prohibits motorists from passing through such a line of cars except where they have separated and stopped at a controlled intersection.

Motorists are aided in identifying funeral processions by a further provision of the law. The cars included in a funeral are required to display two illuminated headlights so that they may be readily recognizable.

Example: A driver reaches an intersection where there are no traffic lights and, seeing an opening in a long line of funeral cars, goes on through. Even though he has not interfered with the progress of the procession, he has violated the regulations.

Swimming Party Will Aid Hospital

Elaborate Plans Made for Evening as Part of $50,000 Drive.

Elaborate plans are being made for the swimming party to be given in the Ambassador Hotel pool next Wednesday evening by the girls of Kappa Phi Delta Sorority and members of the Washington Swimming Club for the benefit of Casualty Hospital in its drive for $50,000.

Harry M. Adams, director of the Ambassador Health Club, has made possible the use of the pool, and has announced that the gross proceeds will be turned over to the hospital as a donation.

Present plans call for an exhibition of diving and swimming by some of the best known swimmers in Washington. Among those who will participate are Florence Skadding, Onalene Lawrence, Lola Bates, Joe Lyman and Cliff Sanford, members of the swimming club. Mrs. Emma Ball Reed, president, is arranging for the appearance of the club members. Members of the sorority will use the pool after the exhibition, which will start at 7 o'clock.

Casualty Hospital is seeking to raise the $50,000 to pay off part of the indebtedness on the new $200,000 hospital building, and for the purchase of additional equipment.

This important announcement is the result of recent marketing arrangements made by Crew Levick Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Company.

Joseph H. Nicholson and his efficient staff of employees will continue to operate the station.

The line of Cities Service products includes the famous Koolmotor, the thoroughbred of gasolenes, which combines both highest test and anti-knock qualities. Koolmotor is a powerful, clean burning gasolene—free from harmful gum—a real tonic for sluggish motors. It keeps your valves clean and free moving and protects you against loss of mileage, power and compression caused by faulty valve action.

Koolmotor Oil—refined exclusively from premium Pennsylvania crude—is ideal for your modern high-speed, high-compression motor which develops high degrees of heat. Koolmotor Oil is a perfectly balanced motor oil possessing the distinctive feature of 5 Point Balance—your guarantee of the smoothest, most powerful and economical miles you have ever driven.

You are cordially invited to drive into the Georgia Avenue Filling Station and become acquainted with Cities Service petroleum products. You will find Cities Service gasolene in the black and white pumps—Koolmotor gasolene in the green and white pumps. You will also find a group of trained experts who know how to lubricate your car as its manufacturer intended it to be lubricated.

WAR DEBT PROPOSAL APPROVED BY HOUSE

McFadden Protests Letting Germany, Over 52 Years, Pay $753,400,000.

YOUNG PLAN FAVOR SEEN

(Associated Press.)

Settlement of German reparations to the United States for $753,400,000 over a period of 52 years was approved yesterday by the House despite protests of Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, that the House was giving "backhanded approval of the Young plan."

Payment of $504,400,000 to cover awards under the Mixed Claims Commission, funded over a period of 52 years, and of $249,000,000 as the costs of the American Army of Occupation, funded over a 37-year period, would be included in the proposed settlement as carried in the Hawley bill, which passed without a record vote and was sent to the Senate.

The Pennsylvanian assailed the settlement as likely to be construed in Europe as "American indorsement of the Young plan, to which this Nation is not a party," and to result in confusing the question of German reparations and that of allied debts to the United States.

Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee, author of the bill, denied that it would in any way constitute indorsement of the Young plan, and said that some such agreement was necessary for the collection of German reparations, in view of the refusal of this country to become a party to the Young plan.

The settlement, drawn along lines recommended by President Hoover and Secretary Mellon last March, was designed to permit payment of awards to private claimants under the Mixed Claims Commission in about 35 years, and those of the Government in the next 14 years.

ALLISON EXTENDED, LOTT EASY WINNER IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

Tapia, Mexico, Bows in 5-Set Thriller With Texan.

Lott Wins in Love Sets Over de la Borbolla; Doubles Today.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

AMERICA'S Davis Cup Team moved one step closer yesterday to repossession of the massive and revered trophy, now known as La Coupe Davis, when George M. Lott and Wilmer Allison vanquished Ignacio de la Borbolla and Ricardo Tapia, jr., Mexico's two best netmen, by the scores 6—0, 6—0, 6—0 and 6—3, 3—6, 6—8, 6—2, 7—5, respectively.

Indeed, America came one step closer to the cup over which it once held undisputed sovereignty, but the step was not as easy to take as the 1,500 place gallery and the rest of the Nation anticipated. Half way, the slight form of Ricardo Tapio, jr., blocked the way for a time and only yielded after coming within an inch or so of deadlocking the matches at all.

With two tallies to the favor of the United States Team, Capt. Fitz-Eugene Dixon will send in John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Wimbledon and Davis Cup champions, against the Mexican combination of Llano and Unda. Play will begin at 2:30 and once again the committee in charge of the matches request that spectators be in their places before the players take the court.

Dixon to Use Prize Doubles Team.

Capt. Dixon, warned perhaps by the unexpected opposition offered Allison yesterday, will probably instruct his prize doubles team to bear down on their opponents, who, judging from yesterday's encounters, are on their toes at all times and ready to seize the advantage of the slightest opening.

From Lott's unreturnable first serve to the conclusion of the match, a scant half hour later, the question in the collective mind of the gallery was how long will it take Lott to win eighteen games?" Lott was simply a better tennis player. He served harder, he volleyed more crisply and he refused to make errors, a trait Borbolla soon proved adept at.

Lott played mostly under blankets. If the term can be used, with the thermomter nicking 90. He contented himself to staying in the backcourt and "feeding" a barrage of medium-paced shots to the increasingly harassed Borbolla. At the end of the first five games Lott had but only 3 points. He presented such a thick stonewall defense that it

MRS. MOODY WINNER IN FRANCE

Former Helen Wills, With Miss Ryan, Doubles Victor.

AUTEUIL, France, May 22 (A.P.).—America's chances in the French hard court doubles championships increased today with the straight-set advance of Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan to the women's semifinals and of Bill Tilden and Wilbur Coen to the men's quarter-final round.

At the same time the United States forces suffered their first casualty through the defeat of Helen Jacobs and her Belgian partner, Jeanne Sigar, by the English combination of Joan Fry and Ermyntrude Harvey, British teamwork, prevailed at 6—3, 6—3, in a quarterfinal tilt.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan were victorious over Mme. Bordes and Mme. Henrotin, of France, at 6—2, 6—4, and thus qualified to encounter Miss Fry and Miss Harvey next.

Tilden's cannonball service was doing terrific execution as he and Coen downed Antoine Gentien and Georges Glasser, of Frace, at 6—1, 14—12, 6—2, the American champion rolling up a total of 17 aces.

Playing conditions were far from ideal until late in the afternoon when the skies cleared, providing the first real tennis weather of the tournament.

Mrs. Moody Fails to Impress.

Mrs. Moody's initial appearance on French courts since her marriage was watched with great interest by tennis fans. The verdict was that she has not yet reached the brilliant form she has shown here on several occasions as Helen Wills and that she is somewhat short on tournament play. This is not surprising as she and her partner had not taken the courts until today, having advanced to the quarter-finals through the default of various opponents.

Mme. Bordes, formerly Mme. Billout, and Mme. Henrotin, who has played in other years as Mme. Lafaurie, provided stubborn opposition. They are both experienced players who for several years have ranked among the first ten in France and they were quick to take advantage of Helen's apparent weakness overhead, lobbing frequently.

Miss Ryan, still one of the greatest doubles players in the world, showed to better advantage than any of the other three.

The strong Anglo-Spanish combination of Eileen Bennett Whittingstall and Elia de Alvarez withdrew today on account of a severe cold from which Mrs. Whittingstall is suffering. This team had been favored to dispute the finals with the Americans.

Tilden-Coen Almost Drop Set.

The semifinals now will find Mme. Simon Mathieu and Mlle. Yvette Barbier, of France, opposing Mrs. Phoebe Watson and Miss De Round, of England, in one match, while Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan meet Miss Fry and Miss Harvey in the other.

Tilden and Coen were seven times within a point of dropping the second set in their match against Gentien and Glasser, but they made short work of their opponents in the other two.

Gentien and Glasser, a very strong doubles pair, were several times at match point at Wimbledon last year against J. Colin Gregory and Ian Collins, of Britain, who went on to land in the final against Johnny Van

Braves Defeat Robins, 6-5, as Seibold Stars

Boston, Mass., May 22 (A.P.).—Harry (Socks) Seibold, who has finished every game he has started for the Braves this season, sent the Brooklyn Robins out of first place in the National League standing when he made a hit in the ninth inning to give Boston a 6 to 5 victory. Seibold had two bad innings, the seventh and eighth which gave Brooklyn a five to two lead. The Braves scored twice in the eighth, and pushed over another run to tie the score in the ninth with one out. Johnny Morrison, who has relieved Jim Elliott, passed Rollings, putting two on base and after an infield out had advanced them, Seibold scratched an infield hit past the pitcher and drove in the winning run.

RUTH, GEHRIG SLAM 3 EACH AS RECORDS FOR MAJORS CRASH

Pipgras Holds Macks Safe in Winning First Game.

10 Pitchers See Service Before Second Contest Ends.

Babe Gets 6 Homers in 2 Days; League Total Is 26.

Second Game Brings 10 Circuit Clouts for New Mark.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 22 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees turned the tables on the Athletics today and won both games of their second successive double-header in a pair of amazing slugging matches. The scores were 10-1 and 20-13. One record was broken and two were tied in the second game, and Babe Ruth set a mark all his own by hitting two home runs in the first game and one in the second to make it six in two days and twelve for the season.

His total put him in a tie with Hack Wilson for major league leadership.

Gehrig Bats in 8 Runs.

Lou Gehrig hit three homers in the second game and equaled the American League record by batting in eight runs. Ten home runs in this contest divided by the two teams, tied the record for the major leagues. The former American League mark was eight.

George Pipgras had no trouble winning the first game for the Yankees, holding the world's champions to six hits. A triple by Mule Haas after McNair had singled in the seventh deprived him of his fourth succes-

NEW YORK, May 22 (A.P.).—As Babe Ruth set the pace with one of his greatest feats of home runs, the major leagues turned in an amazing exhibition of four-base clouts today. The two major leagues produced a total of 26 home runs in their ten scheduled games, to set a record for the current season, if not for all times.

No records are listed for a one-day performance of home-run hitting, but at least one which is in the books was broken and another tied. The New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics hit ten home runs in the second game of their double-header to break the American League record by two and tie the mark for both leagues.

Ruth Sets Pace In Homers.

Ruth's feat of hitting three more homers today, two in the first game and one in the second, set the pace for the rest, although it did not break any of the accepted records, which all are concerned with single games or consecutive games. He missed a chance at the latter marks of five in two or more consecutive contests

Pittsburgh, May 22 (A.P.).—Chicago and Pittsburgh each made thirteen hits today, but the champions batted timely, while the play of the locals was loose, and the Cubs evened the series by taking the game, 12 to 5.

Steve Swetonic was slated to start the game for Pittsburgh but was taken to a hospital in the morning suffering from acute appendicitis. Petty went to the mound but could not hold the invaders, and Spencer, Channon, Jones and Erickson followed him to the slab. In the seventh and eighth innings the relief hurlers gave Chicago seven bases on balls.

Hornsby and Hartnett hit home runs for the Cubs and Suhr for the Pirates.

Browns Rally to Beat Indians in Duel, 3 to 2

Cleveland, May 22 (A.P.).—The Browns bunched five hits in the seventh inning today to overcome a Cleveland lead and defeated the Indians, 3 to 2.

Except in that one inning, Clint Brown was master of the St. Louis Club, while Rip Collins, veteran right-hander, pitched deceptively for the visitors. Collins and Holshauser held the Indians to six hits, three of which came in the fourth inning to give the Tribe its two runs.

Heinie Manush returned to the Brown line-up after a day's suspension from an argument with Umpire Van Grafian, and batted in the Browns' winning run.

Stribling and Scott To Meet in London

Atlanta, Ga., May 22 (A.P.).—"Pa" Stribling, father and manager of "Young" Stribling, Macon Ga., heavyweight boxer, announced today that his son had signed for a bout with Phil Scott in London July 28.

"I saw Scott sign the papers, and we have our signature on the dotted line," Pa said. "There is no doubt of the match now unless Scott tries a new method of running out."

Stribling and his father were returning from their recent trip to England, where W. L. stopped the German giant, Schonrain, in the second round.

The Striblings said they would sail again on June 29 for England to start preparation for the Scott scrap.

HADLEY AND BURKE HOLD BOSTON CLUB TO 11 HITS FOR DAY

Cronin's Bat Is Prominent in Double Victory of Nats.

Visitors' Rally Fails in Ninth of First; Morris Routed.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

TWO well-pitched games by Irving Hadley and Bob Burke, while their mates were getting a few timely hits in the first game and a flock of bingles in the second, enabled the Nationals to take a second double-header in a row from the Red Sox yesterday, 3 to 2 and 13 to 1. As the world's champion Mackmen were taking it on the nose twice from the Yankees, this twin victory enabled Johnson's men to gain two full games on the Philadelphians, making them now three in front.

Yesterday's baseball menu should have suited the appetities of all of the 10,000 cash customers who turned out. For those who like pitching duels, Hadley and Milton Gaston, on the hill for the visitors, provided it, while those who get their thrills watching balls shot off bats like bullets have no reason to complain as a result of the Nats' performances at the swinging block in the nightcap, when they cracked out no less than eighteen safeties, at least one coming in every inning but the second.

Gaston in Good Form.

Gaston's mound performance in the opener was almost as good as that of Hadley. Each allowed only one hit in the first six innings and then faltered slightly. In the seventh Washington cracked out three hits, including two doubles, to score its markers, with an intentional walk to Myer and Bluege's air sacrifice helping out, while the Sox came back in the ninth with three safeties, including Regan's double, and poor judgment on his part in trying to stretch it into a triple at this particular stage of the game was most helpful to the Nats. Hadley had a big edge in strike-outs, fanning no less than eight.

Although Hadley was credited with two of the five hits his team garnered off Gaston and Horace Lisenbee, who hurled the home eighth, the real stick hero of not only this game but of the day was Shortstop Joe Cronin. It was his double which drove home two of the Nats' runs in their lone rally in the opener, while he was credited with five hits, including another two-bagger, in his five times up in the second engagement, these driving home four runs.

Burke Turns in Clever Game.

In the nightcap, Bob Burke, young southpaw, gave an encore to his last start, against the Chisox, and turned in an exceptional game. He granted but six hits and kept them well

PLAYTIME WINNER IN CHURCHILL DOWNS FEATURE

Port Harlem Second in Sprint

Besonian, Favorite, Runs Away and Finishes Fifth.

Polygamus Winner in Belmont's Feature, Limbus Second.

CHURCHILL DOWNS RACE TRACK, Ky., May 22 (A.P.).—The New Albany Purse, the featured number here this afternoon, saw the colors of the Southland Stable flash to victory when Playtime, passed under the wire a winner. Port Harlem, which was coupled in the wagering with Nymph King as the Finn-McLean entry, was second, and Fair Rosalind, from the Braedelbane Stable, third.

The race was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, over the 6½ furlong, which was covered by the winner in 1:19 1-5. It enriched the Southland Stable to the extent of $1,200, while Playtime rewarded his backers at $18.30 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Under the clever handling of Jockey W Garner, Playtime was quickly taken into the lead and saving ground throughout, won in a drive by half a length.

Port Harlem was held in steadying restraint close up to the winner to the stretch, where she was given her head and was rapidly narrowing the distance between herself and the leader, but apparently the move was made too late and she finished second, one and a half lengths in front of Fair Rosalind. The latter raced evenly in third place throughout and closed strong. Besonian, the favorite in the wagering, ran away at the three-sixteenths before the start and finished in fifth place. Seven horses started.

The weather was clear and the track fast.

Belmont Park Race Track, N. Y., May 22 (A.P.).—G. A. Cochran's Polygamous, coupled with the Beasel, scored an impressive victory in the Swift Stakes at 7 furlongs here today. The Rancocas Stable's Limbus was second and James Butler's Questionnaire third. The time was 1:25 1-5.

The day was ideal for racing and a big crowd, estimated at 10,000, journeyed to the Queens course. Eleven started in the Swift Stakes. The Cochran entry was always the favorite. The start was good and the Beasel and Polygamous got away flying. Polygamous rushed to the front while the Beasel was restrained in second place and Limbus third. Polygamous drew away to a long lead around the turn and in the stretch Trimble took him to the middle of the track. Polygamous won by two lengths. Limbus beat questionnaire half a length for the place. The race was worth $4,725.

CLEORA, away well and displaying good early foot, was headed briefly by BROOMSHOT but, responding well when straightened, was going strongly at end. BROOMSHOT was held behind winner until turn where, taking slight lead, faltered when it came to a drive. LADY FINGERS moved up steadily on outside midway of stretch and appeared the best, but tired badly last sixteenth. SPORTING LADY cleared much ground last furlong. ARLINE CONNOR could not reach contention. JESSIE CAREY weakened after half a mile.

HARRY KUHNS moved up fast soon after break, raced around leaders on far turn and, shaking off OSWEGO when challenged at head of stretch, drew far out. OSWEGO raced stoutly on inside, made a game bid at winner when hard driven but, tiring near end, just lasted to hold TWILL safe. Latter suffered from crowding on far turn, came with a great burst of speed through stretch and would have been second in a few more strides. FLYING CHEROKEE, away slowly and forced to race wide in early stages, closed some ground through stretch drive. FUDGE also closed strongly.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:57. Off at 3:01. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE TOKALON, $6.08, $4.78, $3.54; SPANFLOW, $8.70, $4.98; PANDEAN, $5.58.

PRINCE TOKALON, away well and avoiding interference, went into the lead on back stretch and, racing BAFFLING STAR into defeat, come again near end to outfinish SPANFLOW. Latter, coming used after being back first six furlongs, tired slightly in final strides. PANDEAN saved ground while racing forwardly and was going strongly at the finish. UNITED ARMY suffered from early interference and could not improve position. LORETTA B. was knocked back on first turn, then tired badly after reaching contention midway of the stretch. BAFFLING STAR, fractious at the post, quit to a walk last three-sixteenths.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:27. Off at 3:27½. Winner, Looney and Jones' ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARTHA JONES, $11.46, $4.76, $3.76; MISS ELECTRA, $4.90, $5.76; MISS CHILLA, $5.44.

MARTHA JONES, away fast and saving ground on turns, raced into a good lead on the stretch turn and, although tiring, had enough left to hold MISS ELECTRA safe. Latter began slowly and, badly outpaced to the stretch, came with a rush on inside and was rapidly wearing winner down. MISS CHILLA, used up forcing pace, tired badly last sixteenth. MARY COBB raced evenly and had no excuses. PURPLE LADY could not get to the leaders and faltered badly when put to a drive.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,600; allowances. The New Albany. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:53½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAY TIME, $18.30, $6.94, $4.70; PORT HARLEM, $3.64, $2.58; FAIR ROSALIND, $3.08.

PLAY TIME, under clever handling, assumed the lead soon after start, saved all possible ground and, responding courageously when threatened in the drive, had enough left to outfinish PORT HARLEM. PORT HARLEM, overconfidently ridden, was held behind the winner under steadying restraint, raced slightly wide through stretch when making her move and might have won had Huff elected to make his move sooner. FAIR ROSALIND, well up from start, but losing some ground on both turns, closed gamely. BESONIAN ran away about three-sixteenths before the start, made a determined move on back stretch, then dropped back on reaching main stretch. NYMPH KING tired in final drive.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:18½. Off at 4:19. Winner, Mrs. E. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUELIST, $7.50, $4.00, out; CRASH, $2.88, out; MAIDEN'S CHOICE, out.

DUELIST raced closer up than usual in early running, moved up with a rush on the outside of CRASH midway of the stretch and, taking command, easily drew clear. CRASH, gradually disposed of MAIDEN'S CHOICE, latter outstanding rival at head of stretch, but could not withstand winner's challenge. MAIDEN'S CHOICE raced on outside of CRASH, came over sharply when sent to the front rounding far turn, then weakened in the drive. BLEWAWAY and BLACK DANCER were never prominent.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:44. Off at 4:45. Winner, Cold Stream Stud's ch. g. (4), by My Play—Bird Call. Trained by J. S. Middleton. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:25, 0:49 3-5, 1:15, 1:41 3-5, 1:48.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CALL PLAY, $18.48, $8.70, $4.84; WOODLOT, $4.14, $2.62; JAMES M., $3.66.

CALL PLAY, away well, but taken back and held under restraint until reaching far turn, improved position steadily when urged, slipped through on rail all through stretch and was up in final strides. WOODLOT held HONI SOIT under slight pressure, gradually disposed of latter once midway of stretch, responded to a drive, but had no outkame JAMES M. Latter, under stout restraint until stretch, came with a rush and closed strongest of all. CONGO II raced sluggishly most of the trip, came around leaders on the stretch turn, then hung when called upon. HONI SOIT had no excuses.

Gallant Fox-Whichone Meeting to Be Delayed

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—America's turf natural—the meeting of Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, and Whichone, champion juvenile of 1929, may not materialize until the running of the rich Belmont Stake at Belmont Park June 7.

Although both of the 3-year-olds are eligible for the Withers, scheduled for May 31, William Woodward is expected to withhold the Derby winner from that event. Harry Payne Whitney will, in all probability, start Whichone, as the son of Chicle is razor sharp for the race.

EASTERN IS FAVORED TODAY IN INTERHIGH MEET

Field Events Are Likely To Decide

Central, Tech Boast Capable Men for Track Events.

Western Has Only 3 Entrants; Business Not Competing.

AN EASTERN High Track Team, boasting a wealth of material in every department, is expected to win its second successive interhigh championship this afternoon, when the annual interhigh track meet is staged at the Central High School Stadium. The first event is scheduled to be started promptly at 3:45 o'clock.

Central and Tech, two old rivals, are expected to wage a hot fight for second place, while Western, with only three entrants, must be conterned only with individual attempts. As has been the case for the past several years, Business will not be represented.

Superiority in the field events will undoubtedly allow Eastern to cop today, in which case the 1929-30 scholastic athletic year will come to a close with the four major championships held by exactly the same teams which gained honors last year. Tech has already repeated its football and basketball triumphs scored in the 1928-29 season, and Eastern's baseball team last Wednesday gained the diamond crown for the second successive year.

Running Events Likely To Be Close.

While close opposition will probably be encountered in the running events today, Eastern has so many experienced performers in the field, that Central and Tech just naturally fade out of the picture. Hutchinson, Slye, Jenkins, Everett, Oxley, Allison, and Moffett, all give Eastern power in the field, with the Light Blue and White sure of points in every event.

Not many rivals are expected to beat Farhood, Hutchinson and Moffett in the shotput today, while Everett, Slye and Oxley are likely to have only one worthy opponent, Cross, of Central, in the broad-jump. Allison, Oxley and Long can all throw the javelin with the best of them, although Lampson, another Centralite, will be in there fighting.

Central and Tech Boast Sprinters.

Even though the final results will not be altered, some thrills should result from the sprints this afternoon, with Central and Tech both boasting runners who can step on a par with the Lincoln Parkers. Reilley, Hinkel, Pinckney and Cross are all set to go for Central, while Tech will produce Capt. Al Reichman and Quinn. Chester and Frank Miles, Swope and Clow will show for Eastern.

The mile relay race will also provide its share of the excitement, with Eastern's Team eager to gain revenge on Tech's quartet for the defeat administered last week. In that event, Reichman put on a beautiful spurt in the last 25 yards to win the event for Tech. Central's big four must also be reckoned with and may surprise this afternoon

Great Wealth Behind U. S. Yachting Efforts

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—When the Whirlwind, the last of the potential defenders of the America's Cup to take the water, is launched tomorrow or Saturday more than $1,500,000 will have been expended in the preliminary defense of American yachting prestige against the challenge made by Sir Thomas Lipton.

Probably twice this sum will be needed before the completion of the trials to decide which yacht shall sail against the Shamrock V for the trophy, which originally was valued at less than $1,000. Then another $500,000 will be added either vainly or triumphantly by the time of the actual race in September.

Powerful financial syndicates are back of the respective contenders. The sloop Enterprise, which has a big advantage over her rivals in the matter of preparation, was built by a syndicate headed by Harold S. Vanderbilt and E. Walter Clark, New York financial leaders. J. P. Morgan, Julius S. Morgan, Gerard B. Lambert and George Nichols, son-in-law of the elder Morgan, are back of the sloop Weetamoe.

The Whirlwind is being financed almost entirely by Langdon K. Thorne and Paul Hammond, of New York.

BALTIMORE NINE CHALLENGES.

A game with some 18-year-old local team is sought by the St. John's Athletic Club of Baltimore, for Sunday, June 15 and July 4. Address Charles Liberto, 312 N. Greene Street, Baltimore, Md.

Hopkins Twelve to Battle Old Liners at Baltimore.

WITH the feeling that they have a 50-50 chance of beating Johns Hopkins, thus getting back into the running for the national championship as well as produce a general scramble for the title, University of Maryland's lacrosse players are to go through their last workout today for the crucial game in Baltimore tomorrow. Maryland and the Johns Hopkins twelve will open play tomorrow at 3 o'clock, daylight saving time, in the Baltimore stadium.

B.W. Dickson, Old Penn Star, Dead at Age of 54

Philadelphia, May 22 (A.P.).—Byron Wright Dickson, one of the University of Pennsylvania's best-known football stars of the older days, died today at Miami, Fla., after a long illness, according to word received here. He was 54.

Dickson, popularly known as "By," has been ill for several years. In the fall of 1895 he was given a place at end on the Penn Team, along with the late A. Boyle, and played that position the next three years.

After graduation he began coaching at Gettysburg College and returned to Penn to take charge of the scrub team, aiding in the development of the famous Red and Blue Elevens of 1904 and 1905. Later he served as athletic director at Lehigh University and Bucknell. In 1915 he became head field coach at Penn and during the war was in charge of athletics at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Interhigh Basketball Again in Double-Header

A decision to play the 1931 interhigh school basket ball series on the double-header program, in vogue since 1921, instead of the single-game scheme adopted last March, was made at a meeting of the high school principals yesterday.

After the games last winter, it was voted to play next season's schedule on a single-game a day plan over a season, which would run from December to March. Principal Frank Daniels, of Tech, yesterday stated, however, that McKinley students, as a result of the cramped gym space affected by the insertion of extra seats over the extended period, would be seriously retarded in their physical education work, and the return to the old plan was made. A new schedule will be drawn up with the first game to be played early in January.

John Shorey Annexes George Washington Title

John C. Shorey won the annual golf championship of George Washington University yesterday at EastPotomac Park when he defeated John Thacker, 5 and 4.

Shorey and Thacker, aided by Charles Cole and John Owne, defeated semi-finalists, will comprise the University's team in the Intercollegiates which will be played at Oakmont, Pittsburgh, June 26-28.

NATS DEFEAT RED SOX BY 3-2, 13-1

Hadley, Burke and Cronin Stars in Double Win.

enough scattered to have earned a shutout but for an error by the usually reliable Bluege, who picked out this one-sided game to get some bad baseball out of his system.

The Nat third-sacker was charged with two miscues and his first, inserted in the fourth, helped the Beaneaters to their only run. After Durst had opened with a single and Scarritt had fanned, Regan rolled to Bluege, who pegged to right field, trying for a force play. Then Sweeney singled Hurst home. A double play, the Nats' second of the game, helped Burke out of this hole and he saw to it that he got in no others.

The Sox, too, were busy turning in double murders, being credited with three, into all of which Muddy Ruel hit, and but for them the Washington total might have been even larger. "Big Ed" Morris drew the Boston box assignment, and he was in trouble from the start, giving way to a pinch-hitter in the fifth and bringing Ben Shields, a southpaw, into action as his relief. And the latter was no bargain, either.

Nats Stage Track Meet.

Johnson's men forged into a 2-run lead in the first and then scored in every other frame except the second and eighth, having 4-run clusters to show for the third and sixth. The attack was almost unanimous, with Ruel and West being the only Nats not getting at least one safety, even Burke getting two, one of which was good for two bases. Sharing honors with Cronin were Rice, with three in three, and Myer, with three in five, while Judge and Bluege were credited with two each.

The last three innings really decided the opening engagement, for so effective were Hadley and Gaston that each had granted but one hit in the first six frames, Oliver having opened the game with one, while Hadley's blow in the third accounted for the Nats' lone offensive gesture.

Then came the "lucky" frame and the natives' rally, which gave them the verdict. Rice opened this canto with a single to center, a good play by Gaston on West's attempted sacrifice forcing Rice midway. Judge picked this spot to double down the right-field line, sending West to third. Figuring on a possible double play, Gaston was instructed to walk Myer, filling the bases and giving Cronin a chance to be a hero. And the Nat short-fielder did not pass up the opportunity, doubling to center to propel two home and to send Myer to third. The latter scored what proved to be the winning run on Bluege's long sacrifice fly to left.

This rally did not make the Sox lose hope and they came back in the ninth with one of their own which gave the Nats a scare and which might have knotted the count but for some foolish base running by Regan. Durst's real single and Scarritt's scratch one past Bluege put the first two aliens on the runways in the final and Regan then crashed a long hit to deep left. It scored both runners and was good for two bases, but Regan foolishly tried to stretch it and Cronin's good relay of Loepp's return peg nipped him at third. With none down and only one run needed to knot the count, heads-up baseball called for Regan not to take a chance, but he did and this cost his team any chance it had of winning.

Hyattsville Nine Wins County Championship

Surrattsville, Md., May 22.—Hyattsville High School's Baseball Team today won the Prince Georges County high school championship, routing Baden Agricultural High School, 12 to 4, here.

Until the eighth it was a well-contested game. In that frame, however, Cooksey, Baden pitcher, developed a wild streak which, with some timely hitting by Hyattsville and two errors by R. Windsor, Baden catcher, gave Hyattsville eight runs and assured it victory.

Hyattsville and Baden won the right to meet for the county title through winning first honors in the upper and lower county loops, respectively.

ALLISON AND LOTT WIN MATCHES

Tapia Carries Texan to 5th Set; Borbolla Blanked.

must have occurred to Borbolla that he was playing against a practice board.

Local galleries were afforded little opportunity to witness the fire of the Chicagoan. Only once or twice did he exert himself enough to rake his opponent's court with the searing shots that have made him famous.

But even after Lott had amassed a monumental lead, Borbolla kept plugging, though it was evident that the mugginess of the atmosphere and Lott's habit of nicking alternate sidelines had robbed him of a major portion of his stamina. The eighteenth game saw the Mexican within 1 point of averting a whitewashing, but amid sighs from a sympathetic gallery he saw his minute, impending triumph dissipated.

Something about the grim determination on the pinched countenance of young Tapia foreshadowed the fireworks of the second match of the day. The gallery, seated for the express purpose of witnessing another slaughter, was struck by the smooth sweep of the wiry little University of Mexico student as he warmed up with the nonchalant Allison. Play started with Allison serving an ace, but, little affected, Tapia came back with a passing shot that got by the inrushing Texan.

From that point, down through the whole thrilling exhibition, that saw the two men exhausted at the end, the favor of the battle gods shifted from shoulder to shoulder, and moved a blase audience to the very edge of their chairs.

Allison Wins First Set.

Allison's confidence and slight misjudgments on the part of Tapio gave Allison a 6—3 decision in the first set. Tapia muffed a chance to go to 3-1 when he led at 40—15 with the score 2—1 in his favor, but Allison mixed his shots well, alternating a chop with his drive and resorting to drop shots to wear his opponent down.

Allison's accuracy failed him at the start of the second set and Tapia seemed to be getting the ball in the middle of his racquet every time. He soon proved that news of the drop shot and center theory and mixed game had invaded Mexico City. He matched the American ace shot for shot and ran him nearly the same number of miles he himself was forced to run. Aided by a net-cord shot in the critical eighth game, with the score 4—3 in his favor, he forged on to 6—3 against a tiring Allison.

Spectacular play soon developed in the third set. Allison seemed thoroughly aroused that he had dropped a set to an almost unknown netman. Play see-sawed back and forth, with Tapia warding off the net-rushing tactics of the American. Allison was depending on bunching his winning shots to place him in front. Realizing that he was not consistent, he took chances which too often left him standing army-footed while the cool and collected Mexican passed him at the net, a 6-all score in games found Tapia the personification of steadiness, a virtue that took Allison's serve and placed the Mexican in the advantageous position of 7—6 with his serve to follow.

Tapia Braves Net To Win.

Tapia braved the net in this game and volleyed splendidly to take the game and set. Allison hurled away the racquet that had caused him so much trouble and left the court to seek the consolation of a fresh shirt.

The fourth set was all Allison. Refreshed by the 10-minute intermission, his "eye" was better and he advanced to the net only at opportune moments to cut off the soft, if deceptively placed, shots of Tapia. Allison had little trouble in getting home at 6—2.

Yesterday's fifth set will probably live long in the memories of local fans. Tapia led off at 1—0 helped by two acutely driven passing shots. The next game also fell to him after a struggle. In the third game Allison smashed his way to 4—0 on his service. Here Tapia made two great shots to come nearly even, but Allison finished things off with a hard overhead.

The fourth game saw Tapia run up a lead of 40—15 before Allison, volleying desperately, deuced matters. Tapia refused to miss a single ball at this point and so garnered the game to lead at 3—1. Allison drew up to 3—2 on his service, but Tapia sent a thrill through the gallery by holding his own service and thereby piling up the advantage of 4—2.

Allison's Service Counts.

In the seventh game Allison hurled his service into the Mexican's court with such speed and accuracy that, steady and constant as he is, he could not return the ball. Capt. Dixon counseled the perspiring American as he crossed over to the other court, with the games at 4—3 in Mexico's favor. Tapia forewent counsel for an iced towel.

Allison was out to even matters. He led at 15—30 and 30—40, with Tapia serving in the all-important eighth game, but Tapia came back to deuce it, making a series of "gets" that had the gallery whistling. However, he faltered at this point and gave the game to the American on a double fault.

Both players sponged off at the end of the eighth game. The ninth game, with Allison serving, found the American in a hitting mood and he went to 5—4 without the loss of a point.

Tapia stroked carefully with the score 5—4 against him. Aided by two passing shots that captured the imagination of the gallery by their audacity, he deuced the games at 5—5. His equality was short-lived, for Allison started the eleventh game with a tantalizing net-cord shot and then proceeded to blast his light opponent off the court to lead at 5—6, with Tapia's serve coming.

American Volleys Craftily.

Allison took the net on Tapia's service. He volleyed craftily and reached match-point at 30-40. Tapia strove desperately to ward off the impending defeat that was evident while the last point was in play. He drove and drove to keep Allison away from the barrier but the American achieved the net and forced the Mexican to lob. When the ball came within reach Allison struck it with what might he had left and—as was said before—America was that much closer to a match with France for the right to harbor the most famous trophy in sport.

Arthur Hellen, of the Chevy Chase Club, and Robert E. Newby, president of the local Public Parks Tennis Association, umpired yesterday's two matches. They were given valuable support by linesmen Major J. H. Mills, Lieut. Haugen, Dooly Mitchell, Louis I. Doyle, Joseph Butley, Abner Y. Leach, Owen Howensteln and John Ladd.

In an exhibition doubles match, after the singles encounters, George Lott and John Doeg defeated Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin in straight sets, 6—3, 8—6.

CHEVY CHASE NINE LOSES PROTEST

League Heads Forfeit Game to Griffiths; Player Over Age.

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE officials last night awarded the Clark Griffith Insect Nine a forfeit over the Chevy Chase Cardinals after reviewing a protest filed by the former team placing several charges against the Cardinals. The Cardinals defeated the Clark Griffiths in the first game of the league season last Saturday.

It was found that Danny Simpson, Cardinal catcher, is over age. This violation constitutes grounds for forfeiture of the game in which the ineligible player took part. The Cardinals won the game 11 to 10. One of the runs credited the Cardinals was a home run made by Simpson. It was found that Simpson had signed a contract with the Lionel Midgets, giving his age as 15 years as of March 28, 1930.

No decision was reached in regard to a protest filed by the Ballston A. C. Team against the Bauserman Motor Co. Nine in the Virginia section of the unlimited class. Managers Loos, of Ballston, and Deuterman, of the Bauserman Team submitted statements last night regarding the dispute. The Ballston Team maintains that the Bauserman Team played an ineligible player in last Sunday's game, which Bauserman won, 8 to 7, in eleven innings. Manager Deuterman claims that an agreement was made before the start of the game whereby the unsigned player would be permitted to participate. A decision will be made before Sunday's games.

Several changes in assignments of diamonds have been made for Saturday and Sunday league games. The Sterling-Clark Griffith Insect game listed for Saturday has been postponed. A majority of the Clark Griffith players will take part in the junior high school track and field meet Saturday and will be unable to play. The Georgetown-National Capital game has been assigned to No. 9 Monument Diamond.

The King's Palace-Senator Midget class game will be played on No. 4 Diamond at 1 o'clock Sunday.

BUCK ROGERS, 2430 A. D. — Drag Net Closes — By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

TO WILMA AND LIEUTENANT BURK IT SEEMED THERE WAS ONLY ONE CHANCE OF BEING FOUND BY THE ROCKET SHIP. THEY HEADED SOUTH TOWARD THE LAND OF THE GOLDEN PEOPLE. THEY DID NOT KNOW THE DRAG NET WAS OUT FOR THEM.
IT'S OUR ONLY CHANCE. BUCK MAY TAKE ILLANA TO HER OWN COUNTRY BEFORE RETURNING TO EARTH.
AND THE GOLDEN PEOPLE WOULD BE FRIENDLY. SO WE COULD BROADCAST OUR PRESENCE THERE.
FOR DAYS THEY TRUDGED ON, AVOIDING CITIES.
IT'S AMAZING HOW OUR STRENGTH HOLDS OUT— WITH OUR JUMPING BELTS GONE TOO.
THAT'S BECAUSE OUR MUSCLES WERE BUILT FOR THREE TIMES THE WEIGHT WE HAVE HERE ON MARS.
IT HAD TO HAPPEN EVENTUALLY THAT—I DON'T LIKE HIS LOOKS HE'S TOO TRICKY!
IT'S NO CRIME FOR US TO BE HERE. THERE ARE LOTS OF GOLDEN PEOPLE IN—

STOCKS ARE FIRMER AS MARKET CLOSES

Bears' Efforts Curtailed as Turnover Slumps to 1,860,200 Shares.

CASE AGAIN DECLINES

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Bear traders found their course increasingly difficult in today's stock market. Efforts to force leading shares below the resistance points represented by the lows reached on the reaction early this month were unavailing, and volume not only shriveled on the further declines of the earlier hours, but quiet support was accorded to pivotal shares. The list was displaying considerable firmness at the close.

Trading was the lightest since January, amounting to only 1,860,200 shares. This aggregate testified to the extreme inertia, despite the play made by the bears in a few vulnerable stocks.

Although the market is paying far more attention to business conditions than to the credit situation, the Federal Reserve statement as of May 21 showed some interesting changes. The total of bills and securities for the twelve banks was $11,000,000 above the previous week's, with most of the gain made by the New York bank. Discounts were off very slightly, but reserve note circulation of the local institution increased $9,000,000, although this item for the entire system was off $12,000,000 from the week ended May 14.

Note Circulation Drops.

In this connection, it was pointed out that whereas Federal Reserve note circulation has been declining steadily for more than two months, the circulation of the Treasury's gold certificates has been increasing. This growth represents an important basis for credit expansion, since substitution of reserve notes, requiring only 40 per cent support in gold, for the Treasury currency, which represents 100 per cent gold, would release some of the precious metal.

The increase of $8,000,000 in brokers loans to a total of $4,015,000,000 apparently reflected borrowings by pools, which have been moderately active, and by purchasers of stock on a scale down. Distribution of new bond issues has also been going forward in the past week.

There was virtually no change in money. Rates on time loans were revised upward a quarter of 1 per cent in the longer maturities, which had been reduced by that amount on Wednesday. The Bank of England failed to cut its rediscount rate and the New York Federal Reserve directors likewise took no action.

Grain prices moved up. Wheat was strong, 2¾ to 3 cents higher on bullish Kansas estimates and reports of rust in Texas. Corn advanced 1⅜ to 1⅝ in sympathy with wheat and on forecasts of unfavorable weather. Other commodities were quiet, with sugar and cotton both steady.

U. S. Steel Recovers.

Stock prices softened in the morning, but by early afternoon the leadership of General Motors, Ludlum Steel, Corn Products, Grigsby Grunow and a few others had attracted a following and a miscellaneous assortment, including Fox, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, General Electric, Public Service of New Jersey and North American, displayed a much firmer tone. U. S. Steel, which had been down to 166¾, recovered nearly 3 points, closing at 169¼ for a small net gain. Most of the early leaders ruled moderately higher throughout the remainder of the day, and were joined by American Telephone, United Aircraft, Loew's, Vanadium, American Tobacco "B" and Johns-Manville.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron was strong, climbing 2 points to a new high to the accompaniment of reports of negotiations for an alignment with a prominent electric power company. International Salt's response to the increased dividend and the proposed 3-for-1 splitup was a 4-point advance to a new peak price.

J. I. Case was again the plaything of the shorts, making several wide moves that ended in a net loss of 14¾ points. American Machine & Foundry, which is to be split 5 for 1, surrendered a large part of yesterday's gain. New lows for the year were made by American Locomotive, U. S. Freight, Calumet & Arizona and Mohawk Carpet, the latter going down more than 2 points on omission of the 75-cent dividend. Inspiration Copper, whose directors cut the quarterly disbursement in two—the third copper dividend to be reduced this week—held steady on the news.

Foreign exchanges, especially the Europeans, were firm. The French franc was a shade higher.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Cotton prices yesterday during early ruling were relatively steady on the New York Cotton Exchange today. Covering on commission house buying was inspired by the forecast for showers in the Southwest and talk of improved technical conditions. Additional May notices were promptly stopped and there was some trade buying of July but it was supplied by scattering liquidation.

July sold off from 16.38 to 16.29 and closed at 16.34, or 1 point net lower, while the new October advanced from 14.77 to 14.98 and closed at 14.93, or 12 points net higher.

The general market closed steady net 1 to 7 points lower on the old crop and 9 to 12 points higher on new crop months.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 1 point. There was some selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, reports of favorable overnight weather in the South and a little near-month liquidation, which may have been caused by the issuance of May notices estimated at about 17,400 bales. The notices were stopped by the long interests, but rallies of a point or two on the near months seemed to meet some liquidation, while the new crop months during the forecast for showers in the Southwest. After selling off to 16.18 May rallied to 16.25 and closed at 16.22, while the new December contract sold up from 14.86 to 15.06 and closed at 15.00. The closing quotation for July was 141 points above the new October, compared with a difference of 154 points at the close of the previous day.

Trading was comparatively quiet during the entire day, particularly in the old crop months. Trade shorts were credited with buying July on the setback, but the demand was withdrawn on the bulges and there was some selling of July against purchases of May. The day's weather details were considered generally favorable, but the forecast for showers in the Western belt evidently caused some uneasiness and offerings of new crop months were light enough to suggest a firm technical position. Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay selling in that market.

Exports today, 5,806; making 6,422,051 so far this season. Port receipts, 5,401. United States port stocks, 1,719,376.

BOND SALES RALLY AS PRICES ADVANCE

Carrier and Foreign Issues Gain as Convertibles Prove Irregular.

TELEPHONE 4½S CLIMB

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—New life was fused into prime bonds in a late rally today. After dull trading most of the day, both the tone and volume improved near the close on substantial accumulations, particularly in railroad issues.

Although the support did not extend to the whole list, railroad issues appreciated to a greater extent than in some days, and there were many gains of from ½ to 1 point.

Great Northern 4½s, Burlington 4s, Central Pacific first 4s and Chicago & Alton 3½s gained more than a point. A good demand for Rock Island 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, several Pennsylvania issues, St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s, Union Pacific 4½s and Southern Railway general 4s moved them up ¼ to ¾ of a point.

The other promising section of the list was foreign bonds, which were firm and active, with Government issues most in demand. Japanese bonds advanced about ¼ of a point, Danish 5½s were up 1, the entire list of Belgians appreciated ¼ of a point.

In sympathy with the stock for which it is exchangeable, Philadelphia, Reading Coal & Iron 6s touched a new 1930 high at 107⅞, up 2¾. American Telephone 4½s were strong, up 2 points on the last day on which they may be converted at the present rate. Convertibles as a whole were irregular.

United States Governments were inactive, there was some demand for Liberty issues and they gained slightly.

Curb Review

New York, May 22 (A.P.)—Curb market stocks again failed to establish a trend today and trading on this market, as on others, continued to dwindle, total sales falling below 600,000 shares.

Active features were the electric power and natural gas stocks. Such issues as United Gas, Missouri Kansas Pipe Line, Duquesne Gas, and National Fuel Gas were in fair demand, but only the last named moved up as much as a point. Electric Bond & Share fluctuated uncertainly, and closed up a fraction.

American Gas & Electric, American Commonwealths Power B, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, and North American Light & Power, gained 2 or 3 points. Standard Power & Light issues, and Northern States A lost about 3 points, and United Light A closed off a fraction.

Price movements were divergent and confusing in the industrial and specialty group. Technicolor, which broke sharply to new low ground yesterday, rebounded 6 points, coincident with announcement of the election to the board of John McHugh, chairman of the executive committee of the Chase National Bank.

Deere tumbled 7 points, in response to reports from Chicago that the peak of the farm implement demand had passed. The artificial silk issues were weak. Celanese preferred issues dropped 4 and 5 points to new 1930 lows, and Tubize Chatillon lost 3 points. Columbia Pictures duplicated its low level of the year.

In the investment trusts, Chatham Phenix Allied sold up about a point, in response to the declaration of an initial dividend of 50 cents. Mayflower Associates touched 69, its best level of the year. Goldman Sachs sagged fractionally.

Oils were dull and irregular. Gulf lost 2 points, and Cities Service a fraction. South Penn mounted a point.

OSCAR C. HUFFMAN VISITING IN CAPITAL

President of Largest Can-Container Concern Here to See Sister.

BANK GOLF TOURNAMENT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Oscar C. Huffman, of New York, president of Continental Can Co., Inc., has just concluded a visit with his sister, Miss N. B. Huffman, of 3528 Fulton street northwest. Mr. Huffman, in whose organization numerous persons in the District hold stock, organized the United States Can Co., of Cincinnati, in 1909, and was its president until it merged with the Continental company. At the time of its consolidation it was the third largest manufacturer of its kind in the country.

Mr. Huffman remained vice president of the combined institutions until his election to the presidency. His present company is the second largest manufacturer of tin containers in the world. Mr. Huffman, who succeeded Carle C. Conway as president of the Continental company, Mr. Conway becoming chairman of the board of directors, was prominent in Cincinnati business and civic affairs. He now heads a corporation with assets of more than $83,000,000 and operating plants in 35 cities of the United States and Cuba.

Little Variation Seen in Potatoes

Strawberries Are Bringing 10 to 23 Cents a Quart in Eastern Market.

The potato crop on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Maryland was reported looking good after the rains the middle of May, by the Bureau af Agricultural Economics. Although dry weather was responsible for the light set of the early crop in that section, the potatoes are expected to be of good quality now. Very little strength was shown in the potato markets near the end of the month, any firmness displayed at all was in some Southern shipping sections.

Virginia and Maryland strawberries were selling at 10 to 23 cents a quart in Eastern city markets or at $2.50 to $3.50 per crate of 32 quarts. Growers on the Eastern Shore of Virginia estimated that about 75 per cent of their crop was moving out by truck.

Reports indicate that the total acreage of market tomatoes grown in the United States this year may be 10 per cent greater than in 1929 and 22 per cent larger than the five-year average. Plans for the watermelon acreage in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia include only a slight increase over last year as reported around the middle of the month. For the whole group of States shipping the late melon crop, the increase over last year may reach more than one-fourth.

Worms, Germany, May 22 (A.P.).—Evacuation of this city will terminate on May 28, it was made known today. So many troop removals have been made in the last few weeks that the garrison already is reduced to between 600 and 800.

Shipments of army material are going on rapidly. The next transport of troops is scheduled for May 26 and the final shipment of material two days later, although the last military police may not leave until June 3.

Gen. Guillaumat, commander in chief of the army of occupation, today returned from the military conference at Paris. As he sailed past Worms toward Mayence he was shown the highest military honors by French troops drawn up on the Rhine shore. He was similarly honored at all other French garrisons down the Rhine.

CHAMBER MEMBERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Alexandrians to Organize Revamped Body During Initial Session.

FARE REHEARING ASKED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The first full meeting of the membership of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Elks' Home. John Barton Phillips, president of the trade body, has sent out to each member a list of committees, grouped into five main divisions, and asked that each member indicate the committee on which he desires to serve. The divisions are finance and executive; transportation and communication, public relations, industrial and trade relations, and civic development. There is no limit set as to the number of committees on which a member may serve, and he, at his own request automatically becomes a member of the committees he selects.

At tonight's meeting the committee chairmen will be appointed, and members of each committee will proceed to a study of the subject assigned. Committees will make their reports direct to the membership of the body at monthly meetings.

It is announced by President Phillips that since this is the first meeting of the membership, there will be no business transacted, but he will devote the time to explaining problems of the organization and stating progress made.

The State Corporation Commission on next Monday will hear oral arguments on a motion for a rehearing of the application of Robert L. May, owner of the Washington-Virginia Railway and the A. B. & A. bus line for increased rates of passenger fares and the protest of the Alexandria Commuters Association, according to notice received by Harry F. Kennedy, president of the association, yesterday. The increased rates as granted by the commission last Saturday will become effective June 1. The hour for the hearing in Richmond has not yet been announced.

The City Council yesterday, at an adjourned regular meeting, considered the resolution offered at the last meeting to advertise the electric light and power franchise of the city, to run 30 years, to be granted to the highest bidder. Capt. T. M. Hamilton, representing a number of property owners, appeared before the council in opposition to advertising the franchise, and representatives of the Virginia Public Service Co., which is expected to be the only bidder for the franchise, were present.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the council went into executive session with the company's representatives, for consideration of the resolution. The final action was to pass the resolution, which provises that bids in writing for the franchise shall be presented to the presiding officer of the council, and considered at a regular meeting of the council June 26.

The fifth annual flower show of the Alexandria Garden Club will open at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in the armory, and continue until 9:30 o'clock, when all flowers left over will be auctioned off by J. Randall Caton. Prizes will be awarded in each class, as announced, as all exhibits must be brought to the hall between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The city school board has elected these teachers for Maury School for next year: Miss Mary Ames, Miss Eleanor Appich and Miss Teckla Dreifus. For the Parker-Gray School for colored children, Edith Littlejohn has been elected a teacher.

The board has now elected all but twelve in the schools for the 1930-31 session. A number of those at present employes have failed to make application for reappointment, several of them because they are to be married.

The local Kiwanis Club entertained 200 at luncheon yesterday at the George Mason Hotel, its members and visitors at the interclub meeting. T. M. Jones was in charge of the program of entertainment, and Robert G. Carter, president of the club, presided. Delegates were present from Washington, Fredericksburg and Manassas, and short talks were made by Roe Fulkerson, J. Edmonds, Edwin Hill and Harry Kimball, of the Washington club, and J. Randall Caton, of Alexandria. A musical sketch was given by the Givens Golden Jubilee Band.

The degree team of St. John Lodge, of Washington, headed by Worshipful Master George B. McGinty and officers, visited Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22, A. F. and A. M., last night and conferred the Master Masons degree. Worshipful Master Charles F. Swetnam and officers of the local lodge entertained the visitors at dinner at the George Mason Hotel preceding the communication.
